Car key raiders in theft of BMW

CAR key burglars stole a £68,000 BMW and led police on a high speed pursuit reaching speeds of up to 120mph.

The four or five strong gang had already stolen an Audi TT in Birmingham to seek out their target – the home of John Doble in Lupin Drive, Cannock.

In the early hours of September 23 last year Mr Doble and his partner were woken up by the sound of the valuable BMW being started early in the morning and he looked out to see two men backing it off the drive.

The BMW and the Audi drove off in convoy and were located by the police within five minutes, Mr David Swinerton, prosecuting, told Stafford Crown Court.

The gang also stole valuables from the couple's home including a £3,600 watch.

Defendant Jordan Hanlon, aged 20, of Lydget Grove, Birmingham, was jailed for 33 months after admitting burglary, theft of the BMW M3, aggravated vehicle taking and being carried in a vehicle driven dangerously. He was also banned from driving for 12 months and ordered to pay a £120 surcharge.

Another gang member was jailed for the burglary and drug offences but the rest have not been caught.

Veterans in grand finale

SUPPORTERS of a war veterans' group will put on their glad rags for a big band show in aid of the Poppy Appeal.

Held on Saturday, it will be the finale event organised by Great Wyrley Royal British Legion for this year's fundraising drive.

Black tie or period costumes will be the dress code at the event at Great Wyrley Sports and Social Club, in Walsall Road.

Music will start at 8pm and tickets are available on 01922 413815.

OPS CANCELLED ON DAY UP 50pc

The number of operations being cancelled at the last minute in Staffordshire has risen by more than 50 per cent in a year, new figures reveal.

From July to September at hospitals in Cannock and Stafford a total of 113 patients had operations cancelled on the day of surgery – up from 74 in the same period the previous year.

Across the West Midlands there was a 15 per cent increase in last-minute cancelled operations, with 283 more cancellations during that period.

The cancellations happened when the hospitals were run by Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust, which has now been dissolved.

Stafford Hospital is now known as the County Hospital and is run by the University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust.

Waiting

Consultant-led maternity and children's services will be moved to Stoke in the next few months, as well as acute and major inpatient surgery. And Cannock Hospital has been taken over by the Royal Wolverhampton Hospitals NHS Trust.

Cannock councillor and Labour parliamentary candidate Janos Toth, who obtained the figures, said: "As new trusts take over from Mid Staffs we need to make sure that local patients get a fair deal. It isn't right that people in Cannock Chase have faced a far higher increase than the rest of the region has in last-minute cancelled operations."

"People are not only waiting longer for operations but more and more people now face the appalling anxiety of preparing for treatment only to be let down just hours before surgery."

As part of the takeover, the County Hospital will get a new MRI scanner, possibly a new eye surgery unit and a frail elderly assessment service. The hospital's name was changed because bosses said the name Stafford had been tainted following the Stafford Hospital scandal and that clinical staff did not want to work there.

The University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust declined to comment as it was not responsible for Stafford at the time of the figures.

But health watchdog Monitor, which oversaw the overhaul of services at Mid Staffs, have said the trust was 'fragile' at the time and that the figures prove that changes were needed.

Spokesman Kirk Ward said: "Patients should not have to deal with the uncertainty and anxiety of cancelled operations."

"The number of cancelled operations at Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust is further evidence of how fragile the organisation was and why the special administration process was needed to create safe and sustainable services for the people of Stafford."

Clunes aims to solve Wyrley Outrage

Charles Edwards and Martin Clunes check out a replica of the Cannock Chronicle used in the filming of the drama

IT was a notorious miscarriage of justice, which captured the imagination of both newspaper reporters and Sherlock Holmes creator Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Now the fascinating story of the Great Wyrley Outrage is being brought to life by actor Martin Clunes at the Black Country Living Museum.

He is starring as famous author Conan Doyle who became a real-life detective in a bid to clear the name of a Staffordshire vicar's son, accused of a grisly animal slaying.

At the time it was a national sensation – filling column inches in every major newspaper. Set at the turn of the 20th Century, the three-part drama series for ITV tells the story of George Edalji, an Anglo-Asian, who was wrongly convicted of a brutal pony mutilation.

Conan Doyle, hearing about the case, rushed to Great Wyrley to offer his assistance in clearing George's name.

Some of the filming is taking place at the museum with the authentic cobbled streets proving the perfect location.

Talking about why he was excited to play the famously eccentric writer, 52-year-old Clunes said that he wanted to do something completely different.

"Conan Doyle was an extraordinary man. He was a bit like Toad of Toad Hall with loads of interests," he said.

One in 10 shops are standing vacant

ALMOST one in every 10 shops in Cannock and surrounding towns are standing empty, alarming new figures show.

The situation has worsened in the past six months – despite council bosses pledging to try and drive the numbers down.

There are currently 31 empty shops in Cannock, Hednesford, Rugeley – nine per cent of the total number of units. In March this year, 30 shops stood empty.

Cannock has 13 empty shops, Rugeley seven and Hednesford 11 making a total of 31 shops out of a possible 345.

A report to Cannock Chase Council's cabinet, which meets today to discuss the issue, states: "The council is trying to influence market conditions or the decisions of independent or national retailers over which it has no control."

The fortunes of the high street are in contrast to those of out of town retail parks.

Leader of Cannock Chase Council George Adamson said: "We currently have 13 empty shops in Cannock town centre."

"I think there are too many charity shops in the town but I hope that when Mill Green designer village opens it will attract a greater variety of stores."

Lights tribute to Stephen

A CHRISTMAS tree switch-on in memory of Stephen Sutton takes place in Burntwood on November 30.

The tree at Sankeys Corner is to be decorated in yellow ribbons to remember the 19-year-old who died in May. The event will start at 5.30pm and the lights will be switched on at 6pm by his mother, Jane Sutton.

Yellows bows are on sale now from shops in Burntwood and Burntwood Town Council office. All proceeds will go to Stephen's Story.

Care home bid on site of derelict pub

A DERELICT eyesore pub inHednesford will be demolished to make way for a new care home under new plans.

An application to knock down the former Globe Inn on East Cannock Road has been submitted to Cannock Chase Council. Developers want to build a 20-bed care home on the site of the former pub which closed down several years ago.

The full planning application was registered with the district council on November 12 and the plans will be put before the planning committee in the new year. The new development would see a two-storey building with five flats on the first floor and car parking spaces for 24 vehicles built on the land.

Leader of the council George Adamson has welcomed the news.

The Hednesford Green Heath councillor said: "The site has been a disaster area for a long time. It is an eyesore and this development will tidy up a derelict site which has been a target for travellers and arsonists.

"This is good news for local residents and for Cannock. We need more care homes in the area."

The plans have been amended and resubmitted after the original proposals for the site including designs for retail units were refused in March 2014.

New cemetery to meet demand for 50 years

A NEW cemetery on the border between Norton Canes and Heath Hayes, offering thousands of burials each year, will be built under plans revealed this week.

The facility will be able to offer up to 5,000 burials annually. Bosses behind the scheme say if it is approved the cemetery will be in use for around 50 years and they say it is needed due to high demand.

Criminals on scheme going dry

AROUND a third of criminals receiving treatment for alcohol dependence in Staffordshire and the West Midlands have been become abstinent, it has been claimed.

Meanwhile, screening of service users suggests possible alcohol dependence fell from over 90 per cent at the start of treatment, to under 40 per cent at the end.

Alcohol Treatment Requirements, which can form part of a community sentence handed out by courts, are for criminals who are dependent on alcohol.

ATRs offer specialist treatment to reduce offenders' alcohol intake to safe limits, or become abstinent from alcohol.

Probation services for low to medium risk criminals in Staffordshire and the West Midlands are run by the SWM Community Rehabilitation Company. It works with partner agencies to deliver interventions like ATRs and treatment for other drug dependency.

During 2012-13, 279 offenders in Staffordshire and the West Midlands were subject to an ATR.

Findings which have recently been evaluated suggest 33 per cent of offenders had achieved abstinence by the end of their ATR.

Neither Cannock Cemetery in Pye Green Road in Cannock or Wolsley Road Cemetery in Rugeley accept new burials anymore.

The only other council cemetery, in Stile Cop Road, Rugeley, will have capacity for a further seven to 10 years of burials following completion of an extension.

In the planning documents Cannock Chase Council states: "There has been a clearly identified need for additional long-term burial space in the southern part of the district to serve the communities of Cannock, Hednesford, Heath Hayes and Norton Canes for over a decade."

Remain

The cemetery will be built on 20 acres of green belt land off Norton Road. The Bleak House open-cast mine used to be sited on the land.

Plans for a new crematorium in Cannock were submitted to the district council last month.

If approved it will be the town's first crematorium.

Under the proposals, a crematorium, chapel and 75-space car park will be built just behind the Truckers Rest cafe. The business will remain open.

Meanwhile, work at Stile Cop Cemetery has been hit by delays. Work was due to start in the spring. Although some minor preparatory works have been completed, the main bulk of the project has not yet begun. Extension work is now due to start early next year.

Kindles donated to schools

Pupils at Western Springs Primary School show their deight at the presentation of the Kindles

PUPILS at two schools in Rugeley will be able to read books on Kindles after Amazon donated 50 of the devices.

Western Springs Primary School and Chancel Primary School have each received 25 Kindle e-readers as well as a £2,000 gift card to purchase new titles for their children to read in the classrooms and libraries.

Staff from Amazon's Rugeley base made the surprise delivery, when excited pupils at both schools were invited on stage to open the boxes in front of their classmates.

Henry Low, general manager for Amazon in Rugeley, said: "We employ hundreds of people at our fulfilment centre here in Rugeley, many of who have personal connections with these schools. Our fulfilment centre employees were all involved in selecting the schools and it's great to see such a fantastic response from the children."

Tina Blankley, headteacher at Chancel School, said: "A huge thank you to Amazon for supporting our school's drive to develop children's love of reading."

Man was injured in attack at his home

Michael Turner staggered to a neighbour's house, covered in blood, to get help, Stafford Crown Court heard.

His attacker, Mark Bottomer, the boyfriend of his ex-partner's daughter, was given a suspended jail sentence and ordered to pay £1,250 compensation.

Bottomer assaulted Mr Turner in the porch, punching him repeatedly. After the attack, Mr Turner was taken to hospital to have his head wounds stitched.

Bottomer, aged 34, of Forest House, Rugeley, claimed he "thought highly" of his victim, the court was told.

He admitted unlawful wounding and was given a 16-month prison sentence suspended for two years.

He was also ordered to pay £500 costs.

Bottomer admitted in a basis of plea going round to Mr Turner's house to have words with him and to warn him to stay away from his partner, Eve Thatcher.

Mr Mahan Manu, defending, said: "What went badly wrong related to a property Mr Turner had lived in and left in a mess."

Dozens hit by power fault

DOZENS of homes lost power in Staffordshire and parts of the M6 Toll were affected by a cable fault.

Bosses at Western Power Disruption said the problem in Burntwood and Heath Hayes was caused by an underground power cable fault.

The power went off at 4.15pm on Thursday.

Forty nine homes were affected and the power was switched back on about an hour later.

Norton Canes Services on the M6 Toll was affected.

The power was off for around 23 minutes.

Wembley visit

STAFF, pupils and parents from a Rugeley school enjoyed an evening at Wembley to watch the European qualifier between England and Slovenia. Chase View Primary were allocated tickets by the FA for the game in which England came from behind to win 3-1.

Sessions will have plenty of bounce

TRAMPOLINING sessions for adults are being launched at Burntwood Leisure Centre with a free introductory class.

The taster session at the venue in High Street, Chasetown, takes place tomorrow from 6.45 to 7.45pm and is followed by weekly classes until the end of the year which will cost £4.

Participants will have the chance to work their way through the British Gymnastic Trampoline awards scheme. If the sessions prove popular a full 12-week course will begin in the new year.

Claimants figure is still fewer than 300

FEWER than 300 young people in Cannock are claiming jobseekers allowance, latest figures show.

Some 3.5 per cent of 18 to 24-year-olds were claiming the benefit in September, a report being presented to Cannock Chase Council says. It was as high as almost 10 per cent in July 2011, according to the report for the economic development and planning committee.

They state most recently there were 290 claimants. The August figure was 265.

Mini-market will raise church cash

VISITORS to a Great Wyrley church can pick up a Christmas bargain at a mini-market this weekend.

Wesley Methodist Church, in Walsall Road, is staging the event from 10.30am to midday on Saturday.

Stalls will have a festive theme, including a raffle, bric-a-brac, tombola, groceries, cakes and crafts. Admission is free with all proceeds to the church.

Father Christmas on his way to fair

CANNOCK Chase Council leader George Adamson will open a festive fair in Hedgesford next weekend.

It starts at 11am on Saturday, November 29 at Our Lady of Lourdes, Uxbridge Street. Stall will include a bottle tombola, cakes, Christmas accessories and sweets. Father Christmas will also be making an appearance.

Listen to Voices

Peter Cadman will give a talk called Voices from the Past when Cheslyn Hay & District Local History Society meets at the Salem, in High Street, Cheslyn Hay, on Thursday from 7.30pm. Admission is £1.

Teenagers can try for £500 prize in writing

CASH awards totalling £1,500 are being offered to Rugeley teenagers with a flair for writing.

Three awards, each of £500, will be made by the town's Chetwynd Charity in memory of its president, former councillor Nancy Walker, who died in September.

"This is a one-off project to mark Nancy's work with Chetwynd," said her successor Pat Tams. "She was chairman of the charity for many years and appointed its first president a few months before her death."

She said the project is not connected with applications for grant aid. Entrants for the Nancy Walker awards are being invited to write a thesis of between 1,000 and 1,500 words on how, sensibly, they would use £500 to improve their lives.

The competition is open to teenagers aged 16 to 19 inclusive living in the ancient parish of Rugeley. Entries must be handwritten and accompanied by the author's name, age, address, phone number, education details or where working, and essay word count.

They should reach Mrs Tams at 4 Tithebarn Road, Rugeley WS15 2QW before the end of February 2015.

Concert for the Heroes

A group has raised £14,000 for a military charity by organising concerts at the Prince of Wales Centre.

Remember the Heroes will host a rock and blues show this Sunday in aid of Help for Heroes.

Bands Fire and Mutiny and a mystery guest will perform at the venue in Church Street, Cannock, from 7pm. There will be a dance floor and standing area.

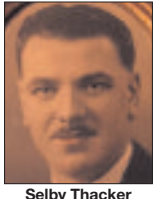

Tickets cost £15 from the box office on 01543 504660.

Derek Bagnall, of Remember the Heroes, says: "We do something different every year."

Donors wanted

DONORS can roll up their sleeves in Rugeley on Wednesday. NHS Blood and Transplant will be at the Garner Suite of Lea Hall Social Club in Sandy Lane and is appealing for volunteers. Session times are 1.30 to 3.30pm and 4.30-7.30pm. Call 0300 123 23 23 to book.

Church reject family's request to exhume

Selby Thacker

A GRIEVING daughter is unable to fulfil her mother's dying wish after a Church of England judge refused to allow her father's cremated remains to be exhumed.

Yvonne Hinksman applied to have the ashes of her father, Selby Thacker lifted from Stafford Crematorium after the death of her mother, Marjorie Thacker in December 2013 so her parents' ashes could be scattered together where they first met, on the banks of the River Tyne at Barrasford in Northumberland.

Despite Stafford Borough Council agreeing to the request, Stephen Eyre, Chancellor of the Diocese of Lichfield and a judge of the Church's Consistory Court refused the application ruling Mr Thacker's remains must stay in consecrated ground at the cemetery on Tixall Road.

Exhumation can only be permitted in exceptional circumstances and Chancellor Eyre said: "At some point after Mr Thacker's remains were interred his widow changed her mind as to the appropriate form of disposal of those remains."

"That change of mind is not an exceptional circumstance."

The couple met during the war when Mr Thacker was working in Northumberland.

They wed in 1947 and were married for 30 years until Mr Thacker passed away suddenly aged just 55. Mrs Thacker was 88 when she died.

Mrs Hinksman, aged 62, of Rickerscote Road, Stafford, said she was disappointed with the outcome but would not appeal.

CAB will extend opening hours in wake of review

HOURS are being increased at an advice service as part of an agreement between Cannock Chase Council and Staffordshire South West Citizens Advice Bureau.

Opening hours for the CAB in Cannock and Rugeley have gone from a combined 20 hours to 26-and-a-half hours a week from this month for face-to-face interviews. In April it will rise again to 30 hours.

The move will see Cannock available for 17 hours and Rugeley for 13 to offer support for residents from Monday to Friday.

The council is providing grant funding of £136,890. The service provides free, impartial advice on a range of issues from benefits, financial information, employment, housing and legal problems.

Financial

Members of the decision-making council cabinet which is led by council leader George Adamson are being recommended to agree the new service level agreement (SLA) today.

A report to councillors states: "The council has provided substantial financial support to the Bureau for many years and with the continued pressures on public finances, it is essential that the council ensures that it is achieving value for money from its grant arrangements. The review of the SLA for 2014-15 has secured a 32.5 per cent increase in the opening hours available to residents living within Cannock Chase with a further increase secured for 2015-16.

By Craig Hughes

"It is also generally accepted that the CAB has performed well in its provision of advice and support to those in most need. The district council is a key stakeholder in CAB services and its viability depends on this core funding. To cease funding would cause serious operational difficulties and possibly even closure."

During 2013-14 the CAB addressed 6,707 inquiries from residents in Cannock Chase. It provided advice on 15,236 issues achieving income benefits to clients of more than £1.3 million.

The bureau used 45 volunteers donating 10,512 hours, which would have cost £160,000 had they been paid. Other facilities available to families in the area include a phone service for more than 40 hours a week funded through Staffordshire County Council.

Advice session for carers

AN information day for carers is being held in Cannock next week. The Carers Association Southern Staffordshire is holding events throughout November in the lead-up to Carers Rights Day on November 28. The theme for this year's day is 'Looking after someone - know your rights'. The information day is at St Luke's Church Hall in Cannock on Thursday from 10am to 1pm. A similar event was being held in Stafford today. Call 01785 606675 for details.

Workers prepare for big tree rush

CHRISTMAS is on the way to Cannock Chase as thousands of trees are delivered to the beauty spot.

A festive shop is being opened on land normally used for picnics - and staff are starting the long process of bringing trees to the site and installing tills and lighting.

Some 8,000 trees are being sold this year, with 1,000 of those coming from the Chase itself and the rest from Forestry Commission sites including the North York Moors.

They range from 4ft to 15ft in height, and there are three species - Spruce, Pine and Nordman Fir.

The trees will be on sale from November 29 to December 18, and 20 staff are currently working hard to get the shop ready to greet customers.

Site manager Andy Coggin said Christmas was a highlight of the year at Cannock Chase.

He added: "We absolutely love this time of year. Who wouldn't love selling Christmas trees?"

"The music can start to drive us a bit mad after a while, but it's a great time of year because we are all so busy with the logistics of setting everything up."

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

A READER says he has already been overwhelmed by Christmas spirit. He rushed out and bought his wife a new coal shovel, even though her battered and splintered old shovel would probably last until the January sales. Sir, she does not deserve you.

MORE green cobblers. A reader reports seeing this on the rear of a builders' van: "To reduce our carbon footprint this vehicle is limited to 70 mph." Which is, of course, the maximum national speed limit.

A READER, aware of my North Country roots, suggests the latest Volkswagen UP, an electric car which costs virtually nothing to run, should appeal to Yorkshire folk. He adds: "Its full name is E-UP. See? It even speaks Yorkshire."

NO-ONE denies that landing a European spacecraft on a comet far, far away is a brilliant technical achievement. However, the Rosetta project has gobbled up more than £1,000 million of our money and we have no choice in such matters. We EU taxpayers are committed by various Euro-treaties to spend colossal amounts of money on space research. Given a democratic choice, how many of us would have voted to send a spaceshot to a comet rather than spending the money on something more pressing? Today our EU bosses may be thrilled to have put a probe on Comet 67P. But if we had invested that £1,000 million in medical research we might have found a cure for cancer.

THEY'RE still grumbling up in Scotland and the effigy of Alex Salmond at the Lewes bonfire did not improve Anglo-Scottish relations. A contributor to a Scottish newspaper's website tells the tale of a reporter in Dundee who came upon a terrible incident.

A pit-bull terrier was attacking a small boy in the street when a man leaped forward and throttled the beast with his bare hands. The reporter pulled out her mobile phone, contacted her office and said: "I've got a great story. Use the headline: Dundee Hero Saves Child by Killing Vicious Dog. The bloodstained hero interrupted her: "Actually, I'm not local," he explained. "I'm from Wolverhampton."

The reporter snarled into her mobile: "Change headline to Englishman Kills Family Pet."

I MAY be a little out of touch with cinema etiquette. Since when has sitting in an auditorium among strangers and stuffing your face with a big, greasy, smelly hot dog been acceptable behaviour?

ONE of Auntie Beeb's finest was trying to explain how a piffing £1.1billion fine, imposed by the Financial Conduct Authority on five banks (which will end up being paid by shareholders and customers) is any sort of punishment for dodgy business practices. He solemnly stressed the importance of "reputational damage" to the banks. Now, what reputation would that be?

I REFERRED recently to man landing on the moon in 1969. A conspiracy-minded reader says a) men never went to the moon and b) the proof is on YouTube. In fact a) yes, they did and b) no it isn't. But the more you try to change a conspiracy theorist's mind, the more they think they're on to something. As Elvis was telling me only the other day.

Nine out of 10 happy with 111 service

NINE out of 10 patients who used the non-emergency NHS helpline were satisfied with it since it was handed over to West Midlands Ambulance Service, a report on the past 12 months has shown.

During the previous year the service has received in the region of 850,000 calls into the service.

People can call 111 24 hours a day for advice when seeking help with non-emergency and out of hours health matters.

It is a marked turnaround from when it was first introduced in April 2013, replacing the former NHS Direct, and call centres run by different providers in different counties were struggling to cope.

The non-emergency helpline was broken up into 46 cut-price contracts and NHS Direct itself was left in deficit and closed. The ambulance service took it over in the West Midlands in November 2013.

Figures from a patient survey show 91.3 per cent were satisfied with the service, 77.1 per cent of which were very satisfied. Some 3.4 per cent claimed to dissatisfied.

There were also 88.8 per cent of users who said they were likely to recommend the service. The service increased staffing levels and training.

Daren Fradgley, NHS 111 West Midlands director, said: "A considerable amount of work has gone into stabilising and developing the service over the last 12 months.

"We are proud of what we achieved during the last year but we will not be resting on our laurels. We will continue to improve."

Patients to get bus between hospitals

PATIENTS in Wolverhampton will have to travel to Cannock for some operations from January, it has been revealed.

Multi-million pound plans will see non-emergency surgery such as hip replacements moved from New Cross Hospital to Cannock Chase Hospital. Buses will transfer patients between the sites. Bosses say they are confident that the move will be a success.

However, a consultation, which was extended after complaints that people were not being allowed to have their say, has revealed that around 70 per cent have high levels of concern about the project, particularly around transport.

David Loughton, chief executive at New Cross, said he 'absolutely understood' people's concerns but had 'no doubts' the move would be a success.

Better

The document has appeared on Wolverhampton City Council's website but comes two weeks after the official handover of services from Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust to the Royal Wolverhampton NHS Trust.

Cannock Hospital is being renovated with new facilities and operating theatres, which Mr Loughton said would be even better than those at New Cross.

Operations are frequently cancelled at New Cross – sometimes dozens on a single day. Mr Loughton said:

By Tim Spiers

"We're overrun at the moment.

"I absolutely understand people's concerns but I've done this before (in Coventry and Rugby) and had exactly the same opposition and that's a great service.

"I've got no doubts about this. People don't want their operations cancelled – it causes them and their families huge anxiety – but none will be cancelled at Cannock."

The consultation revealed hundreds of concerns about the process, with people saying they weren't being listened to, that it was an inconvenience to travel to Cannock and that public transport was not a suitable way of travelling after an operation.

Of reasons given for people's concerns, 59 per cent cited 'travel concerns'.

The shuttle bus service will be run by Arriva. Mr Loughton said a 'dummy run' took 26 minutes from New Cross to Cannock.

Dozens attend ceremony

MORE than 60 people and almost 30 dogs attended a ceremony at Cannock Chase to celebrate working dogs.

The annual event, now in its fifth year, was inspired by Freda, a Dalmatian-type dog that was the New Zealand Rifles' mascot, when the regiment was stationed on Cannock Chase during the First World War. She died in 1918 while the regiment was training on the Chase and is buried there.

This year, 61 people and 27 dogs gathered at Freda's grave to take part in the ceremony.

The event included listening to readings and poems, and laying wreaths on the grave.

Good Samaritan is attacked

David Thawley of Hednesford revisits the scene of the attack in Cannock

A MAN from Hednesford fears his sight may be permanently damaged after he was punched to the floor while trying to help a teenager who was being attacked.

Father-of-three David Thawley was out on a run close to Cannock town centre when he intervened in a fight. The software engineer from Pye Green witnessed a boy of about 15 being chased by two older teenagers and when they hit him, he stepped in.

The attack happened near the Jobcentre at 9pm on November 11. The 47-year-old said: "The two attackers were 19 or 20 and it looked like it was about to get really violent so I ran over and asked them to stop.

"I thought I had diffused the situation but the next thing I know out of nowhere a third man grabbed me from behind."

After the attack, Mr Thawley staggered to Cannock Hospital. He lost his vision in his right eye and was rushed to New Cross Hospital. Doctors hope once the bruising of the retina fades his vision will return to normal, but it is not guaranteed.

Inquest opened on man in field

Stephen Greatrix – car

A MAN who went missing from his home in Rugeley earlier this year has been confirmed dead.

Stephen Greatrix, aged 45, vanished on April 21.

His car was found parked near Cannock Chase but searches of the beauty spot found nothing. On October 23, Staffordshire Police were called to a field off Slitting Mill Road by a member of the public who found a bag and items of clothing.

Police confirmed the items belonged to Mr Greatrix and a four-day search of the area was conducted.

Bones discovered during the search were confirmed to be those of Mr Greatrix.

A post mortem was not possible and a cause of death is unknown. An inquest was opened in Cannock on Thursday and is expected to resume in March.

Dog training on the Chase

DOG owners can take their pets to a free training session on Cannock Chase this weekend.

The Cannock Chase Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty team is holding the free dog behavioural session and dog walk from 10am to 2pm on Saturday.

The training is being held in the John O'Leary Classroom, at Cannock Chase Visitor Centre in Marquis Drive.

Branch of Phones 4U reopens as Vodafone

THE former Phones 4U store in Cannock has reopened with a new name, saving eight jobs in the town.

The store in Market Hall Street is now known as Vodafone Cannock and forms part of the firm's £100 million nationwide expansion.

It is one of the 139 Phones 4U stores which Vodafone acquired in September. Featuring services such as transferring contacts and photographs with Vodafone Red Box, the shop allows customers to be able to 'click and collect', using the store as the place to pick up online purchases.

Employees working at the store are a mix of those who had previously worked for Phones 4U and for Vodafone. Vodafone has taken on 850 former Phones 4U employees as part of its intention to create 1,400 retail jobs across the UK this year.

The opening of the Cannock store forms part of Vodafone's plans to invest £1 billion in 2014 in the networks and services relied upon by its 19 million-plus UK customers. Vodafone UK's 2014 capital investment programme is the largest in its history dating back to its launch in the 1980s.

Children in war tribute

TWO hundred pupils, from six primary schools, gathered in Rugeley to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the outbreak of the First World War.

Each school made a contribution to the service at St Augustine's Church Rugeley in words or music.

The address was given by Dr Alison Primrose, chairman of the Lichfield Diocese Board of Education. The service was just before the October half-term holiday to give the pupils time to reflect on the centenary and to make the events of November 11 more meaningful.

Open day at uni

AN open day for people who are thinking about signing up to a course at Staffordshire University is to be held next month. Information about available courses will be available at the event on December 6. To find out more about the open day, log on to staffs.ac.uk

County's roads among the top two safest

THE number of people killed or seriously injured on Staffordshire's roads fell by more than a quarter last year – putting the county's roads among the top two safest in the country.

In 2013, 165 people were killed or seriously injured compared with 221 in the previous year, according to the latest report from the Department for Transport.

The number of people who suffered minor injuries reduced by 6.2 per cent to 2,697 – a drop of 180.

The latest figures are the lowest ever recorded for the county. Speaking on behalf of the Staffordshire Safer Roads Partnership, Councillor Mark Deaville, Staffordshire County Council's cabinet support member for highways and transport, said the figures were 'incredibly encouraging' and showed that campaigns to improve safety were working.

He said: "Our 20mph speed indicator devices that have already been rolled out to more than 170 schools are encouraging motorists to slow down and we intend to build on this success even further.

"Our 'Ride it Right' and 'Cleaner, Safer Highways' campaigns are also helping us keep our rural roads safe. We won't be complacent where road safety is concerned and will continue our work with our colleagues at the fire service and police and wider partners to make our roads even safer."

The figures show that crashes on the county's rural roads are also down, with an overall reduction of five per cent in the last three years. The number of fatal collisions on the county's rural roads has also reduced – from 29 in 2011 to 19 in 2013.

Insp Mat Derrick, from Staffordshire Police's tactical support team, said the figures were 'optimistic' but the force was working to make the roads as safe as possible. He added: "We, along with our partners, work towards using a combination of tactics to educate and inform road users to change attitudes and habits.

"We seek to prosecute those who fail to comply with road traffic legislation.

"Whilst the statistics are optimistic that the plans we have in place are working towards reducing serious and fatal road traffic collisions, we are far from complacent.

"One person injured or killed on our roads is too many and we will tirelessly work to make our roads even safer."

Charity looking to put brakes on bad drivers

MORE than 94,000 fines have been handed out for bad driving across the West Midlands over the last year, with motorists in Cannock and Hednesford among the worst offenders.

The WS11 (Cannock) and WS12 (Hednesford) postcode areas saw the most fines handed out with 1,084 and 1,005 penalties for careless driving and speeding respectively.

JCB opens plants as jobs to go

JCB has opened two new factories in India – less than a month after announcing it was axing up to 150 jobs in the UK.

The openings in Jaipur marked 35 years of manufacturing in India and have involved an investment of £62 million by the Staffordshire digger manufacturer.

The Indian market for its machines has declined by 20 per cent this year but the firm has invested heavily in the new facilities in readiness for a return to growth.

Chairman Lord Bamford was joined by Vasundhara Rajee, the Chief Minister of Rajasthan, at the official opening of the two new plants on a 115-acre site.

JCB now has five factories in India in addition to 12 in the UK, including its cab factory at Rugeley, and others in Brazil, China and the United States.

The firm has previously revealed proposals to close the Rugeley site as part of £150 million expansion plans which will see a new 350,000 sq ft factory built in Beamhurst, near Uttoxeter.

The jobs are set to go by the middle of next month.

Third in the table were drivers in WV6 which covers Tettenhall in Wolverhampton and Pattingham and Perton in South Staffordshire where in all 983 tickets were handed out.

In the Walsall area, WS10 for Darlaston had 589 fines, just ahead of WS9 for Aldridge on 481.

A total of 94,225 fines were handed out across the West Midlands during 2013, according to road safety charity Brake which is trying to highlight the dangers of poor driving during this week's Road Safety Week.

Tragic

In the West Midlands 156 people were killed and 1,642 seriously injured last year.

Brake deputy chief executive Julie Townsend said: "When drivers use roads without care for others the consequences can be tragic and horrific."

Chief Constable Suzette Davenport, the Association of Chief Police Officers' national lead for roads policing, said: "Our officers and staff do a vital job in enforcing important safety laws and protecting the public on the roads.

"Road Safety Week is a great opportunity for forces and partners to engage with their local communities to deliver important road safety messages and undertake enforcement activities in support of Brake's week."

End in sight for major roadworks

Lanes are coned off as roadworks take place at the Churchbridge interchange ROADWORKS at a busy Cannock interchange are reaching the final stages – having caused delays for months.

The £2.9 million project to re-align lanes and add traffic lights at the Churchbridge junction began in July. The work incorporates three roundabouts connecting the A5, M6 Toll, A460 Cannock Eastern Bypass and the A34.

Roads have mainly been closed overnight while work has been carried out but there have also been some lane restrictions during the day, which has led to queues building up at peak times. The work is expected to finish in January.

Cannock Council leader George Adlamson said the disruption would be 'worth it in the end'.

He added: "It is a very busy junction but we have been waiting for this work for a long time and it will be much better when it is completed."

The work is part of a national £317 million 'pinch point' improvement programme aimed at reducing congestion across England.

Campaigners have been calling for the junction to be revamped for years. South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson criticised it for being 'badly designed' and 'causing gridlock at peak times'.

He said: "It should make a difference to this utter mess of a set of roundabouts that have been badly designed and have caused so many problems."

Musicals show is returning to town

A THEATRE show celebrating 15 years of entertaining audiences in the UK and beyond is being staged in Cannock next weekend.

Beyond The Barricade is back at the Prince of Wales Centre on Saturday, November 29 recreating original West End and Broadway musical hit songs from the likes of Miss Saigon, Wicked, Phantom of the Opera, West Side Story, We Will Rock You, The Jersey Boys, and a finale from Les Miserables.

Tickets are £19. Call the box office on 01543 578762 or go to boxoffice.wlct.org

Lots are wanted for Lions auction

A FUNDRAISING group is staging an exclusive auction in aid of Midlands Air Ambulance.

Organised by Cannock Lions Club, it takes place on Thursday, April 23 at the Mount House Hotel, Acton Trussell. Tickets are £50 each and include pre-dinner drinks and a three-course meal and coffee.

There will be a premium auction and a silent one. The club is looking for donations of unusual items or experiences.

Final readings of the year at church

HEATH Hayes Spiritualist Church hosts a day of readings next weekend – for the last time this year.

They take place at The Cabin, Hednesford Road, on Saturday, November 29 from 10am to midday and 1-4pm. Cost is £12 per 30-minute reading.

Appointments are recommended but not necessary. Call Joyce on 01543 579755 or 07773 398492 or call in on the day.

Festive fair will feature charities

MORE than 20 local charities will be setting out their stalls at a Christmas fair in Rugeley on Saturday.

The sixth annual festive event takes place at St Augustine's Church, Station Road, from 10am to 1pm. Admission is free. Santa will be in his grotto and refreshments are available. Further details from Joan on 01889 800465.

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

TWENTY-FIVE years ago this month, the final phase of the Merry Hill centre opened, an occasion which has surely transformed the shopping habits of the West Midlands in a way that could never have been envisaged at the outset.

Almost instantly, Marks & Spencer closed its branches in both Dudley and West Bromwich, lured by the free rates and easy parking of the new out-of-town centre.

Initial reports suggested a 70 per cent fall in the number of people shopping in Dudley town centre, and slowly, but surely, it has also affected town and city centres further afield.

A quarter of a century on, its legacy is still a matter for debate. Some people love the warm, all-weather malls, others hate the devastating impact it has had on town centres which have been there for hundreds of years.

The majority, though, I suspect, do not feel that strongly one way or the other. They simply take the view that if that is where Marks & Spencer, British Home Stores or Sainsbury's is, that's where they will go.

According to Dudley Council leader, Councillor David Sparks, "Merry Hill enabled Dudley to look Birmingham in the eye," and at that point I really have to disagree.

Dudley cannot, and never has been able to look Birmingham in the eye, certainly not within living memory, and realistically, it is not going to any time soon.

However, Merry Hill is probably the reason why Dudley can no longer look Wolverhampton or Walsall in the eye, either.

And for that I will always be very sad.

WEST Midland clergyman the Rev Alan Fraser, who drives a petrol-electric hybrid vehicle which is exempt from road tax, observes that he still has to go on to the DVLA website to not pay the road tax he does not owe.

He adds: "There is a range of (non) payment options, although I apparently will be charged £2.50 if I decide to not pay by credit card.

"So, if I have understood this, I am to not pay for a tax disc that I now won't get sent."

And if he does not comply, presumably he will be sent a final demand to not pay his road tax.

Winning creations prove oh so sweet

Judges' acclaim was the icing on the cake at a top baking show. LAURA BLYTH takes up the story

IT IS the new national obsession. Thanks to shows like The Great British Bake Off, we are a nation of bakers – and none more so than in the West Midlands it seems.

Some of the region's brightest talents in the kitchen are celebrating after scooping top awards for their efforts. These range from those making a living out of what they are serving up to those who are wowing with their amateur creations.

West Midland bakers are leading the way when it comes to creativity and they cleaned up at the recent Cake International competition held at the NEC in Birmingham.

Among them was a family of cake bakers from Cannock who took their colourful creations along to the show and came away with a clutch of awards.

Samantha Lote, owner of The Funky Fairy Cake Shop in Bridgtown, picked up two golds at Cake International.

Balloon

Her owl and pussycat cake impressed the judges in the decorative exhibit category, while her two-tier wedding cake, featuring a hot air balloon balanced on top, also wowed the panel.

Samantha's two daughters, Davina, 12 and 11-year-old Georgia also picked up a certificate of merit and silver respectively. Mrs Lote, aged 36, said: "I've entered Cake International twice previously and only picked up silver, so I was over the moon to get two golds.

"Everyone starts off with 100 per cent and they are marked down. I got over 90 per cent for both of my cakes."

It took Mrs Lote 85 hours to complete the owl and pussycat cake and another 37 hours on the her wedding day creation. But it could have been a different story after she had a near disaster on the way to the competition.

She said: "The owl and the pussycat cake broke on the way to the competition. I cried all the way to the NEC. Thankfully the judges were very understanding.

"I chose to do the owl and pussycat because it's something everyone recognises and knows what is is straight away."

A talent for cake baking also extends to Mrs Lote's mother, Susan Higgs, who picked up an award less than three months after being diagnosed with the blood cancer lymphoma.

Mrs Higgs, 64, has been undergoing chemotherapy which numbed the tips of her hands but she managed to pick up an impressive certificate for her allotment cake in the decorative exhibit category. Mrs Lote added: "I was so proud of her."

Meanwhile Rose Macefield, from Bil-

ston, who owns Rose-Marie's Cakes and Sugar Craft in Coseley, now shares her shop with a life-size replica of Gollum, of Lord of the Rings fame.

Mrs Macefield, aged 40, who has been running the shop for almost three years, won the 'best of the best' prize at the Cake International show.

Two other cakes went along with Gollum, which won gold, including a bust of wizard Gandalf, which achieved a silver, and a smaller piece with a puppy in a pumpkin called Buster, which came third in its category.

Mrs Macefield was chosen as the best decorator out of all of the competition's previous winners.

She said: "I first became interested in cake decorating around seven years ago when I baked my son's Christening cake.

"It was very basic but people complimented me and that spurred me on to learn more."

Mrs Macefield went on to teach herself more elaborate skills and even took a course at City of Wolverhampton College. Now, alongside running the shop on a day-to-day basis, Mrs Macefield also teaches others the art of baking.

Blockbuster

Another winner from the region include amateur baker Lara Clarke from Brownhills who picked up gold for two cakes, a life-sized Katniss Everdeen from the blockbuster film The Hunger Games and a cake of Tyrion, a character in the hit TV series Game of Thrones.

Shuga Budz in Bridgnorth Road, Compton, won three golds, one silver and two bronze.

In the wedding cake category Rachel Wellsbury picked up a gold medal and was awarded third place overall. Owner Debbie Mutting won a silver, while Sarah Phillips and Rachel Dale were awarded bronze.

In the decorative exhibits category, Vicki Swann and Amelia Mason both struck gold.

WEEK IN POLITICS

with Daniel Wainwright

WE need to talk about Europe. I say that knowing full well that for people who follow politics at the moment it seems as though we talk about little else.

But the farcical scenes in the Commons over the European Arrest Warrant show how toxic it is proving to be to the Tories.

Not that we need much more proof of that, of course. The by-election won by a Tory MP-turned-UKIPper and coupled with the likelihood of a repeat in Rochester should have made it abundantly clear by now.

MPs turned up to vote thinking they were going to get a say on the European Arrest Warrant itself. Instead the motion put before them was for just 11 of 35 measures that the coalition government wanted to opt into and the warrant was not one.

The Conservatives would not have wanted to face another rebellion by Eurosceptic backbenchers. But after all these years it should have been abundantly clear to the whips that anything with the word 'Europe' in it is not going to go down well with the likes of Stone's Sir Bill Cash or Aldridge-Brownhills MP Sir Richard Shepherd.

The latter, retiring at the election, made his feelings abundantly clear: "At the heart of this is a misconception about what this House represents... my over long time in this House of Commons has led me to understand the growth of executive arrogance is unsupportable."

Even reading the words one can hear the weariness in his voice. Sir Richard has been an MP since 1979. He's been rebelling on Europe since Maastricht.

Labour's shadow Europe minister is Wolverhampton South East MP Pat McFadden. He said the Tories have a 'psychosis' about the union and pointed out that there was actually more than enough support from the majority of the Tories, Liberal Democrats and Labour to vote the warrant through.

Now Labour has decided to debate and vote on it as part of an Opposition Day on the eve of the Rochester by-election. The thing is a mess. And this is before we have even got to the argument about the warrant itself.

As far as Mr McFadden and Labour are concerned, as well as the Tories in favour of it, is a means by which this country has managed to deport 1,000 foreign criminals in a single year and has resulted in the successful return of people wanted by our own authorities.

The arguments against include concerns over the ability of other EU member states to demand the extradition of British citizens without sufficient evidence.

There are various legal experts, civil liberties groups and others now turning it into a political football. Maybe we should have been worried about it, maybe not. But if they won't even debate it, the Government can't blame people for drawing their own conclusions.

Dates set for funerals of fireworks blaze victims

THE funerals of the victims of the Stafford fireworks tragedy will take place next week.

Father-of-three Stewart Staples was visiting SP Plastics in Baswich as a customer on October 30 when a fire broke out. He died alongside Simon Hillier, who worked there.

His funeral service will take place at St Luke's Church in Cannock town centre at 2.30pm on Monday.

His widow Angela Staples has asked for family flowers only, with donations to go to either The Otters Club in Cheslyn Hay, where he was chairperson, the RSPB, which he supported all his life, or the Downs Syndrome Educational Trust.

The 57-year-old, who worked for Staffordshire County Council, lived with his family in Bond Way, Hednesford. He was identified by DNA after two bodies were found in the aftermath of the blaze on Baswich Lane Industrial Estate.

Exploding
He died alongside Simon Hillier, 41, of Mountside Street, Hednesford, who worked at the fireworks factory. His funeral is taking place at St Peter's Church on Tuesday.

Around 50 firefighters tackled the blaze at SP Plastics. Hundreds of rockets were sent exploding into the sky above the industrial unit near Stafford town centre and thick black smoke could be seen for miles.

The inquests into the deaths of the two men have been opened.

Deputy coroner Louise McCabe opened the inquests at Cannock Coroner's Court on Thursday.

The cause of their deaths is still unknown and the inquests were adjourned until April. The Prime Minister has offered his condolences to the victims' families. David Cameron urged the authorities to 'get to the bottom' of what caused the fire.

Former kickboxer Simon Hillier worked at the fireworks factory

In the Commons, Stafford MP Jeremy Lefroy said: "May I offer my sympathies to the families of those killed and injured in the tragic factory fire in Stafford last week and also praise the wonderful response of the emergency services."

Mr Cameron replied: "Let me join my honourable friend in offering condolences to the families of those killed and we must get to the bottom of exactly how that fire started."

Floral tributes were laid at the scene. Meanwhile, nearby businesses are counting the cost. Stephanie Horton, managing director of River Canal Rescue, returned to the site to see if any of her company's irreplaceable items could be salvaged.

However, the offices, above the SP Fireworks warehouse, were completely destroyed. She said: "Our offices have been completely gutted, we have lost everything. We are now working from our dining room while we work with our insurers and look for a new premises. We had hoped that some of our irreplaceable items that we have spent years collecting could have been saved but sadly there is nothing left at all."

Police say it will take 'some time' to identify a cause.

Sanctions are best weapon

Russia's annexation of Crimea, their failure to explain the shooting down of a passenger plane and their continued large presence of military forces on the border of Eastern Ukraine threaten stability and peace.

There is now continued evidence of Russian military incursions into Ukraine.

This is the worst European crisis since the cold war. Although Ukraine feels a long way from Cannock Chase it is only a few hours by road. The impact of Vladimir Putin's actions could be felt by all of us.

Sanctions are the correct and proper thing to do. Some areas of our economy may have costs but no action will result in massive costs in the longer term.

Russian aggression needs to be stopped. This is why I believe tough economic and financial sanctions are the best way forward.

Do we really need another layer of government?

THE recent referendum about independence for Scotland, which, although it did not result in independence for the Scots, did result in more powers being promised and transferred to the Scottish Parliament and it has certainly stirred a great deal of furore for devolution in England. Wales has also jumped on the bandwagon wanting more powers for the Welsh Assembly.

Now, if we are going back to look at more powers for the English cities or regions, and I think it is a good reconstituted idea, do we really need another layer of local government?

Surely with more powers being devolved downwards I fail to see the necessity for 650 MPs at Westminster; let's cull them down to 500. While we are at it, let's get rid of all the nearly 800 drones in the House of Lords and replace the Lords with 250 elected Lords or Senators as an upper revising chamber. We could go even further, get rid of all county councils and district and borough councils where they exist and create unitary authorities, there would be fewer councillors and senior officers, a big financial saving all round.

In Staffordshire it would mean the eight district/boroughs and Staffordshire County Council being abolished and three unitary authorities created. Having wielded the axe on our costly democratic institutions I believe there should be greater representation at grassroots level. All communities should have local democratic elected bodies such as town/parish/community councils where they do not currently exist.

None of this will happen, of course, because the people who can change our chaotic expensive democratic systems for the better belong to these personally lucrative organisations and I can't ever see turkeys voting for Christmas.

Let other countries hand out the cash

WHEN are our ministers going to realise that Britain is not the richest country in the world?

They give out hundreds of millions of pounds in overseas aid to countries that swallow up the money.

However, the handouts never appear to improve their situations.

Where does all this aid go?

The only people who seem to benefit from Britain's money are the leaders – and the armies – of these so-called countries.

They never appear to have a shortage of weapons.

Wake up, Britain, and let some other, richer, countries waste their money on these corrupt countries.

Differences between the Tories and Ukip

DR Washbrook of Burntwood suggests (Letters, November 6) that after looking at the policies of the Conservatives and Ukip he cannot see a difference and Ukip is trying to run before it can walk.

I suggest he reads the papers again.

Tories support HS2, Ukip will cancel it, Tories want to stay in the EU, Ukip don't. Tories cannot control our borders, Ukip will.

Tories want to keep throwing borrowed money at corrupt regimes, Ukip will stop it.

Tories support the bedroom tax, Ukip will scrap it. I could go on but you will get bored.

I suggest that Dr Washbrook gives as much care to reading policy statements as he does to reading patient notes.

No doubt he reads them carefully rather than scanning and creating a misleading diagnosis.

First night for theatre

I WRITE with reference to an article about the opening of the Prince of Wales Theatre in Cannock ('Curtain goes up on theatre's 30th', Chronicle, October 30).

The feature stated that the opening was carried out on September 19, 1984 but that is not correct.

The theatre was actually opened on my birthday – September 13.

My family and I were there.

It was a very enjoyable evening.

Help needed in my hunt for relatives from Fifties

DOES anyone know the whereabouts of my cousins, Alan D Smith, his sister Eileen, whose married name is unknown, or any of their descendants, as I need to make contact with them?

I last saw Alan and Eileen in the late Fifties, when their address was Four Oaks Common Road, Sutton Coldfield.

At the time, they were living with their parents Leonard and 'Min' Smith.

If anyone has any information about the above, they can contact Mrs C Miller (nee Smith) by calling 01889 802982. Thank you.

An insight into life as panto dame

Heathside Group WI

THE October meeting was hosted by Norton Canes and held at the Methodist chapel.

Members from Cannock, Hayes Green and Shreshill WIs also came along.

The meeting was opened by Norton Canes WI president Gill Crutchley who welcomed the members, the guest from the SFWI board of trustees Mrs Dorothy Robinson and the speaker Mr Richard Westcott. She asked all to stand to sing Jerusalem accompanied on the organ by Mrs Pat Littler.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read, agreed and signed, the financial statement was read and Mrs Robinson was introduced.

She announced that Denise Moreton was stepping down as chairman of the trustees and that Sheila Moulton would be taking over. Dorothy reported that Anne Diamond was a very good speaker at the Autumn Council meeting and that Michael Portillo has said he will speak next year.

Cannock WI will host the Group carol service this year at St Luke's Church on December 6 at 11.30am.

The next group meeting will be hosted by Cannock at St Luke's Church Centre on March 12. Mr Richard Westcott was introduced with 'Confessions of a Pantomime Dame'.

The competition was won by two Norton Canes members and raffle prizes went to Hayes Green and Shreshill members. Shreshill WI gave a vote of thanks.

Focus on Christmas after busy few weeks

Lion Maureen Thompson, Lisa from Donna Louise Trust and Lion Shirley Brown

CANNOCK Lions Club have had a busy few weeks. After the Charter Anniversary with Jean Martyn in attendance as the after dinner speaker at the Oak Farm Hotel, they inducted yet another lady member within the club and two at club branch Hednesford.

Some members took part in the Lions Walk For Sight in Lichfield and a bag pack was done at Tesco, Heath Hayes. For the first time the club organised a Murder Mystery Evening at the Pied Piper pub which was a sell out.

Proceeds will be going to help a Cannock family whose son is in long term care in Stoke Hospital. A donation has been made to the Donna Louise Trust. Members were very proud to lay a wreath at the cenotaph on Remembrance Sunday. At the moment, there is a great deal of planning for Christmas. Santa's sleigh will be at Morrisons Cannock, the club were in attendance at the Christmas lights switch-on and the senior citizens' Christmas lunch is being organised.

For more about the Lions Club, check Facebook or call 0845 833 4967.

Murder mystery is talk topic

AUTHOR and historian Anthony Hunt gave an informative and interesting talk 'Getting Away With Murder' at the meeting on November 16.

It was about a local murder which took place on April 15 - 1957. The deceased was Elsie May Taylor who lived in Bridgtown.

On that day John Holgate

CHASE TERRACE LADIES

reported he had broken in to her house and found her dead.

She was found on the living room floor with her hands and feet tied behind her and there was bruising to her neck and face with a small cut on her forehead. A post mortem was not clear if a heavy punch to her face led to a fatal heart attack or whether she was strangled.

Three men were suspects. He divorced husband David Taylor, her male friend Harry Richards and another male friend John Holgate, who reported finding her body. All men had alibis and nobody was ever arrested.

Cloudy2Clear Windows - Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes - not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people

I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Brian a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Payouts by council to redundant workers cut

THE cost of payouts to redundant council workers in Cannock was cut by almost two-thirds in a year, figures have revealed.

There were four agreed departures from Cannock Chase Council in 2013-14 compared with 16 in the previous 12 months. The cost of the 'exit packages' for staff in the last 12 months was £259,000.

The figures are contained in a Statement of Accounts report prepared by the authority which is led by Councillor George Adamson. In 2012-13 the cost was £734,000. There were no compulsory redundancies in the two-year period.

It states: "The council terminated the contracts of a number of employees in 2013-14, incurring liabilities of £259,000. Of this total, £153,000 is in respect of redundancy costs, £32,000 wages in lieu of notice and £74,000 for actuarial strain on pension, all due to the rationalisation of services."

The Statement of Accounts for Cannock Chase Council also shows it spent £15.9 million on capital projects in 2013-14, which was £1.3m less than the budget. Among the projects which have got the go-ahead were a £3.2m spend on improvements to council homes and £2.6m on redeveloping Moss Road estate.

Cannock Chase Council also agreed to step in to help fund pendant alarms for pensioners and vulnerable adults in the district.

In July, Staffordshire County Council announced it was slashing funding in a bid to save £214,000. Bosses at the district council slammed the decision and then stepped in to fund a scaled-down version.

Overall, Cannock Chase Council expects to be providing a free service for about 1,350 people by March 2015.

Bright idea helps keep pupils safe

Alisia Astle, aged 11, and Alfie Brown, eight, with other pupils and their new high-visibility jackets supplied by Specsavers

AN opticians in Rugeley is helping to ensure children can be seen clearly this winter by donating high-visibility vests.

Specsavers has made the donation to pupils at three town primary schools. The Upper Brook Street store is one of a number of Specsavers branches donating high-visibility vests as part of the initiative.

Optical assistant Kirsty Guest visited the Etching Hill, St Joseph's and Chase View primaries ahead of Road Safety Week, from November 17 to 23, to hand over the vests.

Store director Minal Naik said: "Road Safety Week is a great time to let children know about the importance of being visible. With the dark mornings and the nights drawing in, now is the time to think about children's safety."

Whatever the occasion, we'll make it that extra bit special...

Developers accept pub site flats bid refusal

DEVELOPERS who were refused planning permission to build supported accommodation on the site of a Cannock pub have decided not to appeal the decision.

HB Villages wanted to demolish the Pied Piper in Pye Green Road and build 16 supported flats for vulnerable young people.

Despite the plans being recommended for approval, committee members went against planning officers' advice and rejected the application last month.

The plans for the two-storey building comprising eight flats for adults with learning disabilities and eight adapted apartments for those with physical disabilities were rejected on the grounds of over-development.

Aware

Originally bosses behind the development said they would have no choice but to appeal but have since revealed they are now looking at other options in the town.

Daniel Keane, development manager for HB Villages, said: "HB Villages will not be appealing the planning decision."

"We are aware that there is a tremendous need for supported living accommodation in Cannock and whilst disappointed at the Pied Piper decision, we will now be focusing our efforts on delivering a new development on an alternative site in the town."

The news has been welcomed by campaigners who have successfully registered the pub as an 'asset of community value' until August 2019, after a petition to save it was signed by 600 people. Campaigner Phil Demp-

Campaigners have successfully registered The Pied Piper pub as an 'asset of community value' until August 2019, after a petition to save it was signed by 600 people

ster said: "I am absolutely delighted with this news, it is wonderful."

"Our steps now will be to focus on Marston's and see what they do next. I hope we can take the pub forward."

Mr Dempster added: "We have requested a sale price from Marston's after we registered the pub as a community asset. We are still waiting to receive this."

"It is not just a pub, it brings the community together. It is a base for charity events, clubs and provides a social place for many. This is a facility that is greatly needed and greatly loved."

However, despite the pub being registered, the brewery is not obliged to sell it to the group, and others are open to bid for it.

Wolverhampton brewery Marston's decided to sell the pub saying it is no longer commercially viable but campaigners hope that the failure of this application will stop any future attempts to sell the site or develop the land.

At the meeting Councillor Maureen Freeman praised the campaigners and said: "The people who use this pub have worked extremely hard to turn it around and they should be applauded for thinking ahead."

Following the announcement by HB Villages, Councillor Freeman said: "That is really good news. I am very pleased for the campaigners, they have worked so hard."

Meanwhile, plans to build three new homes in the grounds of a Penkridge pub have been approved.

The homes would be built near the Railway Inn on Clay Street, after being given the go-ahead by officials at South Staffordshire Council.

Work on the site will also include associated landscaping and car parking.

A planning application for the work has been approved subject to a number of conditions.

Lucky escape for workers as limo loses a wheel

Traffic was delayed after this stretch limo lost a wheel on the Wolverhampton Road, Cannock

A GROUP of factory workers in Cannock had a lucky escape when a stretch limousine lost one of its wheels.

The wheel rolled across the road and narrowly missed them.

The workers were on a break outside the Gestamp chassis plant in Wolverhampton Road when the limousine, which was carrying people to Cheltenham racecourse, lost its wheel.

Witness Stuart Howard said: "I heard a clunking noise on the road.

"Then the next thing I saw was the wheel coming along the road. Then I saw one of the staff kicking it out of the way because it was heading towards him. The wheel came to rest on the path," the press shop worker said.

The limo left a deep gouge in the road for several yards.

The car is operated by 2XL Limos. Matt David, a director of the Telford-based firm, said: "We're not sure what caused the car to fail. It will be investigated independently to find out what the issue was with it."

He said the model was about four years old and that the manufacturer in the United States would be contacted.

TV's Repo Man in gym surprise

Sean James of Repo Man fame hands over a giant signed picture to Josh Guy, watched by Lee Hosking, owner of

A TELEVISION star from Staffordshire surprised one of his biggest fans and presented him with a haul of merchandise from his show.

Sean James, who is also known as the Repo Man, presented Josh Guy with the goodies at Xtreme Gym in Norton Canes.

Signed

Mr James is the star of The Repo Man show on Channel 4 in which he recovers items on behalf of finance companies.

Mr James handed over a signed framed photograph of himself, a signed DVD, a mug, hat, hoodie and a T-shirt that he wore on the show.

The 42-year-old said: "Josh trains there twice a week with a personal trainer.

"He comes over and chats right up to the point that his trainer has to pull him away.

"Without fail, if I'm in there, he chats to me.

"I have to stop training halfway through sets to talk to him.

"The trainer explained that he's mad about The Repo Man.

"I didn't mind - I just made sure if I was in the gym when he was there I made the time to chat.

Father-of-three Mr James trains at the gym.

Mr Guy, aged 23, is also a member of the gym. Josh's father Richard Guy said: "He was made up with all the stuff.

"He's already put the picture up on the wall."

In the past, Mr James, who lives in Wimblebury, has awarded hundreds of pounds worth of bikes and toys to a Scout group.

First

He donated BMX bikes, sports gear, and a remote control car to the 1st Burntwood Scouts in April.

Mr James's new show, Repo Man Uncut, is on the channel Quest.

The first episode went out on Monday last week.

I thought I would die says officer shot on duty

A POLICE officer shot twice in the face has described the moment he was hit saying he thought he was going to die.

Father-of-four Sgt Jon King was left blind in one eye as a result of the shooting while he was on duty in Rugeley but has put down what happened as 'one of those things'.

And he also revealed he is the second serving police officer in his family to be shot - his brother Geoff King was hit while working in Wolverhampton in 2006. The Pc was opened fire on while on a path off the Penn Road after being approached during police checks following a spate of car thefts. He was shot twice and lost six and a half pints of blood. Doctors said he was within two minutes of dying.

His 48-year-old brother, who has 26 years' service with the force, was shot twice in the face at close range after he and his colleagues were called to help paramedics at a property in Wat Tyler Close, Rugeley, on October 19.

A 34-year-old man was later detained at the scene under the Mental Health Act and taken to a psychiatric unit for treatment.

As he continues his recovery, Sgt King has posted a video diary on YouTube. The police officer, who was born in Birmingham and grew up in Rugeley, described the moments leading up to when he was shot.

He said: "We were helping paramedics

Sgt John King from Cannock, who was shot by a rubber bullet and has lost an eye ics and social workers who wanted to see this guy and make sure he was OK.

"He was inside his flat and wouldn't come out. We had to use force to break the door. As we went in he started shooting at us. I was probably about 6ft away from him when it happened.

"As the door went, he started shooting at us. The first bullet hit me in the eye. My thought at the time was that I was going to die. I was too scared to touch my face in case it wasn't there."

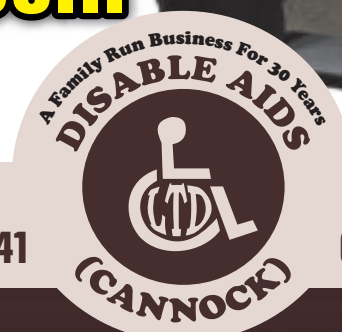

He said he was on the first floor landing and had tried to escape but was shot again. Sgt King, who lives in Cannock, added: "It's unbelievable that two members of the same family got shot on duty responding to incidents. The bullet went into his back, hit his rib cage and came out of his neck, taking his carotid artery out. The guy who shot him got a life sentence."

The officer, who has racked up four commendations, including two bravery awards over his career, has already seen his You Tube blog get 1,500 hits from people across the globe.

On the video, he says: "It's just one of those things."

Labour man will give up seat in his bid to be MP

A LONG-STANDING Labour member of Cannock Chase Council has decided not to contest his seat on the authority in next May's elections, in order to focus on his bid to become an MP.

Janos Toth, who has served on the authority for 19 years, said he would 'fight tooth and nail' for the parliamentary seat. He aims to fill the seat left vacant by Tory MP Aidan Burley who decided not stand for re-election after he was at the centre of a row over a Nazi-themed stag party in 2011. Cannock Chase is one of nine key marginal seats that Labour believe they can win back from the Conservatives come the general election.

The Staffordshire constituency was a symbolic victory for the Tories in 2010 as the former Labour seat fell to David Cameron's party with the biggest swing anywhere in the country.

Janos Toth was first elected to the council in 1992, losing his seat in 2008 to win it back in 2011. He was deputy leader for two years.

He also sat on Staffordshire County Council between 1993 and 2001 and from 2003 to 2009, on Stoke-on-Trent & Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Authority from 2005 to 2009, and on Staffordshire Police Authority between 1993 and 1995.

Fight

He has also served on Bridgtown, Heath Hayes & Wimblebury and Norton Canes parish councils.

Mr Toth said: "I won't be re-standing for Cannock Chase Council next year as the fight is on for the MP race and I want to make sure that we beat the Tories and ensure a Labour victory."

"If elected I would be a full-time MP serving residents across Cannock Chase."

"I will be fighting tooth and nail to make sure we win this seat back."

He promises to guarantee 25 hours a week of free childcare, freeze energy bills and bring in new 'decent-paying' jobs to the area.

He said: "My top priority is supporting the NHS which is under a massive attack from this Tory-led government."

"The A&E hours at Stafford Hospital and the hours at Cannock minor injuries unit have both been slashed."

"People in Cannock Chase are being short-changed by not having the same

Focused - Janos Toth has served on Cannock Chase Council for 19 years money spent on NHS services. I pledge to fight for residents in our constituency to get the best NHS services."

The Conservatives are hoping new candidate Amanda Milling will retain the seat for them.

Mr Burley, who was elected to represent Cannock in 2010 aged 31, announced in February that he would quit parliament at the 2015 general election.

He was sacked as a ministerial aide when reports of the Nazi-themed stag party episode emerged in 2011.

Chairman will open tree festival

CANNOCK Chase Council chairman Alan Pearson will open the fourth annual St Luke's Church Christmas tree festival next week.

It will be launched on Wednesday at 7.30pm. Music will include seasonal songs by the Songbirds in Harmony choir, the Gentleshaw Handbell Ringers with Victorian songs and poems from the Christine, Alan and David Eccleshall. Entry is £5 and includes a glass of mulled wine and mince pie. The festival runs for three days and features more than 50 decorated trees, nativity set displays, craft, cakes, preserves, and Fairtrade stalls plus a café. Entry each day is free from 10am to 5pm.

Saturday is schools day with three local school choirs providing the entertainment.

Closure threat to care home as numbers fall

Lorry did U-turn on M6 Toll

A Cannock CCTV camera captures the moment the articulated lorry does a U-turn on the M6 Toll after going the wrong way down the slip road

A LORRY driver who did a U-turn on the M6 Toll during rush hour after driving down the slip road the wrong way has been handed a suspended prison sentence.

Footage of Lithuanian Leonid Papachin shows him going the wrong way down the slip road at junction T5 at Shenstone near Lichfield.

When he realised his mistake he pulled onto the hard shoulder but then tried to rectify it by performing the U-turn into the path of three lanes of oncoming traffic.

CCTV images then show Papachin's 40-ton truck complete the U-turn and then drive off in the right direction. Motorway police, alerted by CCTV controllers, stopped the lorry a short time later, and the driver was arrested and charged with dangerous driving.

Papachin, aged 51, was remanded in custody and appeared at Cannock Magistrates Court where he was sentenced to 15 weeks in prison, suspended for two years, and ordered to pay £85 costs.

He was also disqualified from driving for 18 months, after which he will be required to pass an extended test of competence.

The incident happened at 5.30pm on October 23.

A CARE home has been earmarked for closure because falling numbers means it is costing more to treat people.

Great Wyrley Community Support Unit is said to no longer offer 'good value for money'. It offers respite care for those with conditions including dementia and learning difficulties. Although it has 16 beds, council bosses say it has an average of six vacancies a night.

If every bed was filled, the gross cost per bed each week would be £936. However, because of the number of vacancies, the average cost is closer to £1,470 per bed.

Staffordshire County Council says its preferred option is to close the unit and offer short-stay residential care provided elsewhere.

Two other options are on the table though - continuing to run it as normal or bringing in someone else to run it.

The estimated cost of sourcing short stay care from independent providers is in the region of between £450 to £580 a bed each week. A consultation is to be carried out subject to cabinet backing.

Support

Councillor Alan White, cabinet chief for health, care and wellbeing, said they wanted to ensure people received the best possible support, that is tailored to them and offers them choice and control.

"Short-term respite support can be a lifeline, and we are committed to supporting carers by ensuring that it is available when and where people are assessed as needing it," he said. "That respite needs to offer high quality, personalised services that provide good value for money."

"While the Great Wyrley CSU has played an important role in the south of the county for some time, it is no longer providing the local, modern and tailored service that people expect in 2014, and the good value that taxpayers rightly demand."

A report to the cabinet states: "Great Wyrley CSU is a traditional generic, non specialist, short stay care home with attendance figures that are low overall resulting in high unit costs. Initial investigations have shown that there are a range of suitable alternatives in the surrounding area."

Sports sessions in centre launch

ACTIVITIES to get people with disabilities into sport were on show at Chase Leisure Centre at a jam-packed event to celebrate the launch of a new programme.

Chase Active, which has received £60,000 from Sport England's Community Sport Activation Fund, launched the project on Friday.

It has a range of sports for residents, aged 16 and above, with physical, learning, sensory or cognitive disabilities.

Embroidery tutor passes on top tips

FIFTEEN members of the Chadsmoor Tapestry Group attended an embroidery workshop taken by Jenny Adin-Christie, a member of the Royal School of Needlework and a sought-after tutor.

Cannock Chase Arts Council provided a grant to enable the workshop at Chadsmoor Methodist Church to go ahead.

The group meets at the church on Wednesday between 7.15 and 9.30pm and is looking for new members. Call 01543 506206.

Fundraising fits the bill for sporting youngsters

By Rob Cox

PUPILS in Rugeley raised money for charity while improving their own fitness.

Normal lessons were put on hold at Chase View Primary to enable youngsters to take part in a series of sponsored sporting challenges, namely tag rugby, football, fitness circuits, parachute games, hockey and running.

Each class spent approximately half an hour on each activity before moving to the next. The children made a donation to Children In Need to take part in the activities and wear sports kit for the day and more than £130 was raised.

It was all part of the fundraising marathon which saw people across the region singing their hearts and shaving their hair in a series of wacky stunts.

In Stafford a convoy of driving instructors turned out for the first ever Children in Need Big Learner Relay.

Driving instructors started the relay in Ireland on October 30. Convoys then travelled the UK until November 14, finishing up in Birmingham – and calling at

Chase View Primary School pupils in Rugeley during their sporting challenges

Stafford's Asda car park on the way. The aim was to relay a 'top box' – the kind that driving instructors have on top of their cars – from one driving instructor to another. Their pupils then drove with the box, which had Pudsey Bear perched on it, along their part of the route as the lead car.

Cannock driving instructor Jilly Shepherd was among those taking part. She said: "I am so proud to say I have been a part of the event. Asda staff were very helpful. We were able to use their car park, they brought Pudsey out to see us and they had collection buckets."

Elsewhere, Fred Hamar, deputy manager at the Queens Square Wolverhampton branch of Natwest bank, had his head shaved as part of the efforts.

Staff set a target of raising £200, with Fred agreeing to shed his shoulder length locks if they managed to raise the money.

The bank branch clocked up a total of £500.

Customer services officer Sharon Lett, said: "As soon as he verbally agreed to take part in the head shave, we put posters up so he couldn't back out."

Winners

In Walsall, staff at Ormiston Shelfield Community Academy gave their pupils a special treat, pulling together to put on an 'S Factor' variety show.

Acts included classic Jon Bon Jovi and something a bit more modern with Sam Smith, but it was the PE department which ran out winners with their rendition of One Direction.

A parent-come-rapper from Walsall helped to record a song alongside pupils to raise money for the appeal.

Jason Webster, aged 42, was joined by students at Hydesville Tower, his seven-year-old daughter Jade's school, to create their own version of Search For The Hero by M People.

Start made on £500k repairs to waterways

A £300,000 programme of improvements to waterways in Staffordshire have begun.

The Canal & River Trust has launched a major overhaul of the county's waterways as part of a five-month maintenance programme on canals and rivers.

The works, taking place until the end of February, will see craftsmen repairing canal walls, locks and bridges as well as installing new lock gates. Work has started on two locks near Stone.

Sandon Lock has been drained of water to enable a new lock gate to be fitted and nearby Hoo Mill Lock is having its gates refitted to ensure a more watertight seal. Engineers will also repair the brickwork.

The works at both sites will take around a month.

Other works before Christmas include refitting gates and brickwork repairs at Trentham Lock, near Barlaston, plus Star Lock and Yard Lock in Stone.

Plea to drivers as deer on the move

In their nature – deer head towards high ground on Cannock Chase near Brocton in the morning sun

THE weather may be turning cooler but that hasn't stopped these deer from enjoying a stroll at a much-loved beauty spot in Staffordshire.

They were spotted darting through the trees on Cannock Chase while taking in some morning sun.

There are estimated to be more than 350 deer across Cannock Chase and nearby Chasewater Country Park, Burntwood, and at the moment it is mating season.

A safety campaign has been launched aimed at protecting the animals during rutting season. Drivers are being urged to slow down as the deer could be jumping over hedges and fences.

Rangers fear that during the rutting season, they are likely to dash across roads to reach their mating partners.

They have been warning people to be vigilant, especially on fast roads through the countryside.

Signs have been put up on roadsides during the rutting season.

During the rutting season, stags start fighting each other as they pursue the females.

A doe is only in her fertile phase for a day or less each year so competition to mate is incredibly high.

This top stag will mate with as many females as possible.

Damaged

Some have been spotted on Cannock tip and their activities have led to them picking up rubbish on their antlers.

Each year more than 14,000 vehicles are severely damaged and about 450 people injured or killed on British roads as a result of collisions with deer across the country.

Colvin is manic and marvellous

Gerry Colvin Band
Newhampton Folk Club
 GERRY Colvin is like 50s skiffle icon Lonnie Donegan spliced with manic comedian Lee Evans.

Along with a great talent for music and an unstoppable string of stories and observations it makes him a great entertainer with a personality almost too big for the packed upper room of the Newhampton Inn, Whitmore Reans, Wolverhampton.

Colvin is an engaging raconteur and spent much of the time between his enthralling songs claiming he would not do the very thing he was doing, talking.

He was joined on stage by three excellent musicians Lyndon Webb on guitar, Trish Keelan on accordion and Jerome Davies on double bass. Colvin, who has been around for years and is lauded on both sides of the Atlantic, straddles the folk, country, jazz and Americana genres. His versatility is seemingly endless moving from folk songs such as Alcohol and Me to the Latin beat of South American Dream.

At times Colvin, originally from Barrow in Furness, is pure theatre however he does get serious too but without getting heavy with songs such as The House of the Setting Sun which is about mental illness. One thing is for certain with Colvin, you get your money's worth.

MJ show was a real live Thriller

Thriller Live, Grand Theatre

WHAT a thriller! When it comes to Michael Jackson music, I am sure the packed Grand Theatre would agree, you just can't beat it.

High energy, amazing voices and brilliant choreography this show had everything. The cast gave their all as they took us through the legendary journey that was Michael Jackson's life.

The lead vocalists were excellent, none more than Samantha Johnson, whose powerful voice filled the auditorium, and Alex Buchanan with his version of She's Out of My Life.

All the favourites were there, I'll Be There, Blame It On The Boogie, Dangerous, Black or White and of course Thriller with particularly good versions of 'They Don't Care About Us, Earth Song and Smooth Criminal.

With little encouragement needed the audience joined in some of the songs and they did not need a second call before they were on their feet. A fantastic show and not to be missed.

Send in the clowns — a scene from the strange and surreal Slava's Snowshow

Slava's indoor snowstorm blasts the senses in this unique show

Slava's Snowshow, Birmingham Hippodrome

BLIZZARD conditions hit Birmingham when this wonderfully weird show returned to the Hippodrome, as it marked its 21st year on tour of the world. To describe this production as a clown show with a wintery theme is to sell it short. It is more Salvador Dali than Billy Smart.

Russian clown Slava Polunin, who no longer performs in the show, has devised a unique spectacle. He has done for clowning what Cirque du Soleil did for circus as a whole but with a ripple of grim humour. It starts with a clown with his head in a noose.

The combination of dream imagery, haunting music and slow-burning comedy is punctuated by showstopping set-pieces. These include a cobweb that envelops the audience and an indoor snowstorm that remains one of the most sensational moments of stagecraft in modern theatre.

The show ends with giant bouncing balls being released into the auditorium. The clowns watch the audience become children, whatever their age, playing in Britain's biggest ballpit. The only people left unhappy must be the Hippodrome's cleaners, faced with mounds of paper 'snow' to clean up.

BOROUGH COUNCIL

Stafford Market | 01785 245 935 | www.staffordbc.gov.uk

Voters given reminder

RESIDENTS are being sent letters about how they are able to vote. The way people register to vote is changing across the country. Up to now, the head of a household has been responsible for registering everyone who lives there. From now on, people will register as individuals instead, using a new system. South Staffordshire Council says most people already registered to vote have been moved onto the new system automatically so may not need to do anything. Letters sent out will tell those who need to register on the new system, which can be done in a few minutes.

Inmate in drug plot given new jail term

A PRISONER who seduced a woman warden into smuggling drugs into the prison where they met has been given another jail term.

Andrelle Leedham smiled broadly and raised two thumbs in the air as he was led from the dock after being given a four-year jail sentence.

The 26-year-old had returned to crime after winning the heart of operational support prison officer Hannah Stewart, 27, while doing time for blackmail in Featherstone Prison where she had worked for four years.

The pair began a sexual relationship behind bars that continued after his release on August 23 last year, Derby Crown Court heard.

Then he persuaded besotted Stewart, whose father and brother were also prison officers at the jail, to smuggle a loaf-sized parcel of contraband weighing 2kg that had been packed by him into Featherstone Prison on November 22.

Detained

The package held skunk cannabis, 700 anabolic steroid tablets, seven mobile phones, eight bottles of alcohol, and cigarettes. Stewart was told by inmate Christopher Lewis - who had links with Leedham - to give the contraband to fellow prisoner Ricardo Edwards, the court was told.

The pair were most immediately detained by suspicious prison staff before the package could be opened because they were in a part of the jail where they should not have been. Stewart was quickly arrested after CCTV film had been studied but Leedham was not held until January after his fingerprints had been found on items in the package.

Recorder Peter Cooke told Leedham, Edwards and

By Simon Stone

Lewis: "The contents of the package had a wholly different market economy in the prison context."

He said he accepted as a fact that Leedham and Stewart had been engaged in a 'sexually explicit' relationship while he was still a prisoner in Featherstone.

The judge added: "He strung her along. Her feelings were not reciprocated, he was manipulative thinking that if he had got a prison officer wrapped around his little finger it could be of benefit to him."

Leedham, whose family live in Wolverhampton, but who set up home in a bedsit in Telford after his release, was convicted after a trial of plotting to supply cannabis, anabolic steroids and convey mobile phones into HMP Featherstone.

Edwards, 31, who currently is serving an indeterminate sentence for robbery, and 29-year-old Lewis, in Featherstone for supplying heroin, each admitted conspiring to supply heroin in the jail and were both given two-year, three-month jail terms.

Stewart, of Oaks Drive, Featherstone, who has admitted misconduct in a public office and conspiracy to supply drugs and anabolic steroids, is on bail and will be dealt with at a later date.

Get your home ready for winter chills says MP

AN MP is urging people to prepare their homes for winter before the weather gets colder.

South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson said there was a lot of help for people wanting to keep their homes warm and reduce energy bills.

Mr Williamson said major energy companies are offering loft and cavity wall insulation for free which can save up to £150 a year on energy bills. Some constituents may also be entitled to extra support from the Government and their energy supplier if they meet certain criteria, he added.

Mr Williamson said last year around 550,000 customers in the UK received the Warm Home Discount, a one-off discount of £135 on the electricity bill, which is rising to £140 this year.

Mr Williamson said: "As temperatures fall, heating bills begin to rise.

"There are a number of simple steps that everyone should take to make sure that they're doing all they can to keep their bills lower and their homes warmer."

Ian Peters, managing director of British Gas residential energy said: "There is help available, and we urge customers to get in touch to find out what advice and support is on offer."

Lucy leaps to top spot in dancing challenge

ASPIRING dancer Lucy Montero is on top of the world after being crowned the supreme champion at an international championship. The 12-year-old impressed judges with her amazing twists and leaps to beat off rivals, including adults, at the Skegness Dance festival in October. She was among talented a number of youngsters there who attend Sundance School of Dance based in Rugeley. Tutors took a group of 18 girls and three boys, aged four to 21 years, to participate in freestyle, solos and pairs events in categories covering rock 'n' roll, street dance, contemporary and team routines. But Lucy, who is a pupil, at the town's Fair Oak Academy, trounced her rivals in every round to pick up the coveted International Supreme' dancer trophy. She even competed against adults to win the over-12s section against 24 other UK registered and international performing arts studios.

Lucy Montero – champion

Proud Lucy, whose family recently moved to the area, is coached at Sundance by mother and daughter team Dawn Pickering and Rachel Allen and practises several times a week. Her delighted mother Helen Twiddle said: "We are extremely proud of our daughter Lucy. "She started dancing with Rachel at Sundance School of Dance two years ago when we moved from the North East. "To go to a competition as big as Skegness and to be supreme winner is a dream come true. "Many thanks, Rachel and Dawn, and the fantastic dance team for support and making us very welcome." The dance school says every team member competing at the event made the final round of their genre and resulted in the team bringing home to Staffordshire a record-breaking amount of first places in all sections. While their main base is at Rugeley Leisure Centre, in Burnthill Lane, classes are also held at sites in Stafford, Etching Hill, and Armitage with Handsacre. The school entered two teams into the festival and snapped up top spots for both of them.

Alert over fires caused by faults in white goods

Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service is urging people to be aware of blazes that can be caused by electrical faults. Fire chiefs are warning people not to overload plug sockets, to unplug appliances and make sure electrical appliances have a British or European safety mark. In Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent the number of fires caused by electrical faults in white goods including dishwashers, tumble dryers and freezers, has been falling annually. So far this year, there have been 559 fires caused by electrical faults. This includes 256 in north Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent, 156 in the east of the county and 147 in the west of the county. It compares with 641 in 2013 when there were 278 in north Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent, 187 in the east of the county and 176 in the west of the county. Glynn Luznyj, head of risk reduction, said: "We are far from complacent and want to raise awareness among our communities." Electrical Fire Safety Week, which ended on Sunday, highlighted the risks that are posed by faulty electrical items, which cause about 7,000 fires in England every year.

A CHURCH in Penkridge is running its annual coach trip to Chester on Saturday.

The coach will leave St Michael's Church at 9am.

Meanwhile, the church is holding its Noah's Ark session between 10.30am and midday today.

And on Saturday between 10am and midday, there will be coffee, cakes and fellowship.

FOCUS ON PENKRIDGE

Trainee builds on his skills in construction competition

A TRAINEE bricklayer from Penkridge has scooped a top award at a regional construction competition.

James Callaghan, aged 20, was named best senior bricklayer in the regional heats of the national construction competition SkillBuild 2014, which took place at South & City College Birmingham. More than 100 young construction trainees battled it out.

Skills such as bricklaying, wall and floor tiling and painting and decorating were put to the test.

James, who studies at Stamford College, beat off stiff competition from around the region including Stoke-on-Trent, Dudley and Worcester.

Best

Birmingham's regional heat is the latest of 14 taking place across the UK, with the top 10 competitors from across the 14 heats going through to the national final at the Skills Show at Birmingham's NEC. James missed out on the top prize at that event but has been congratulated for getting so far.

SkillBuild has taken place for around 40 years, travelling around the country looking for the best in regional talent. The competition is organised and supported by the Construction Industry Training Board (CITB), the Sector Skills Council and Industry Training Board for the construction industry.

James said the competition had been a 'great experience' and that he was proud to reach the final at the NEC.

Catherine Bullough, CITB sector strategy manager for the West Midlands region, said: "SkillBuild is all about the way that people setting out on their construction career work."

"Most of the competitors are still learning so it's not just about the finished article, it's about the whole process that they go through," she added.

First-aiders rewarded for efforts

VOLUNTEERS have been rewarded for delivering first aid in the Penkridge area.

Six volunteers in the Penkridge unit of St John Ambulance were recognised, having collectively served more than 150 years.

Petula Hughes, who helped found the unit 40 years ago, received an award for performing more than 500 hours of first aid at events. Sheila Carnochan was recognised for being a volunteer for more than 23 years.

Jean James, unit leader, has clocked up 34 years. Long service awards also went to former teacher Lesley Bodkin, a volunteer for more than 25 years, and Barrie Hill, who helps run the Cadet unit. Andrew Hughes received a St John Ambulance service medal.

Academy to stage open day

PROSPECTIVE students are invited to take a look around the UK's only dedicated land-based academy next week.

The open day takes place at the Rural Enterprise Academy on Monday from 6 to 8pm and will be followed by another at the 180-hectare Rodbaston site on Saturday, January 24 from 10am to 2pm.

The free school, based at South Staffordshire College's Rodbaston Campus, was developed by the college, the National Farmers Union and Veolia. It opened in 2012.

The Rural Enterprise Academy will be welcoming Year 9 students for the first time, following approval from the Department for Education to extend its provision.

For details go to www.ruralenterpriseacademy.com or call 01785 333360.

It's a winter wonderland

FAMILIES can get into the festive spirit at Lower Drayton Farm.

The site is being transformed into a winter woodland where children can meet Santa and enjoy other seasonal attractions.

It runs on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from November 29 to December 21. For opening times, admission details, or to book, call 07817 691352.

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

AFTER a nine-year stint based within Beatties, House of Fraser, the bridal department has finally decided to go it alone.

Adele Louise Bridal boutique will be opening its doors from November 21 in newly refurbished premises at 3 School Street, Wolverhampton.

Adele Edwards is the owner of Adele Louise Bridal and she has been based within House of Fraser in Wolverhampton with her bridal business, Bella Sposa, but Adele has now taken the decision to open up her own shop.

"Having our own salon means we can offer more flexibility to our customers," explains Adele.

Champagne

Adele Louise Bridal will offer customers late-evening appointments for both fittings and viewings, as well as special events including a VIP weekend which will take place on November 22 and 23.

The weekend will be a ticket-only event, with a champagne reception, canapés, the amazing designer Ian Stuart collection, as well as members of the Ian Stuart team, a solo opera singer, Mrs Cup and Saucer offering vintage afternoon tea, Rock Paper Scissors showcasing its collection of wedding stationery, California Hair Extensions, plus a fashion show.

Bespoke Creations and now Blooms formal hire have agreed to go along too.

Tickets are on sale for £5 each.

Visit Adele Louise Bridal at School Street, Wolverhampton

There will be many offers on during the VIP weekend including discounts, veil offers etc.

As well as an extensive range of designer wedding gowns, which includes Justin Alexander, Ian Stuart, Mori Lee, Ronald Joyce and Enzoani, Adele Louise Bridal will also showcase a range of bridesmaid gowns, prom dresses and designer evening gowns. It also stocks Richard Design veils and tiaras and Rainbow shoes.

Adele Louise Bridal is a premier bridal store based within the heart of Wolverhampton. It offers the full package for brides including tailoring your wedding gown to fit you perfectly, packaging your gown for destination brides, and now it is offering additional services including nails, hair and bridal make-up.

Brides who prefer VIP treatment will be able to hire the whole shop for the evening to include Fizz and a nibbles from a menu of fabulous food.

For more information contact Adele and the team on 01902 399900 or info@adelelouisbridal.co.uk or visit www.adelelouisbridal.co.uk

Rest assured that all existing customers will receive the quality and service that we have been proud to supply within House Of Fraser, giving you more flexibility with opening hours to suit you.

Hundreds turn out to honour the fallen

The remembrance parade makes its way through Rugeley in the glorious autumn sunshine Pictures by John W Parkes Around 350 people gathered around the cenotaph in Rugeley for the town centre act of remembrance.

They stood in the glorious autumn sunshine to hear the Rev Preb Michael J Newman take the blessing.

The congregation consisted of veteran and serving soldiers of various regiments including the Mercian and Staffords.

On the stroke of 11am the Town Hall clock sounded its bells followed by the sound of the Last Post with the two-minute silence reveille.

The laying of the wreaths was performed by all services and organisations, from Rugeley Town Council to the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

A Pipe Major played the parade away from the town centre to the Royal British Legion's home at Olly's Bar in Bow Street.

How post-war work return never took off

AT 11 am on November 11, 1918 the guns fell silent across the world.

They were firing right up to the last second, as many of the gunners were claiming that they had fired the last shot in the 'War to End all Wars'.

Then began the process of returning the millions of men and women, but mostly men to their homes, where many expected to return to their old jobs, supplanting the women who had taken their place; but things were not as simple as that.

Wolverhampton, and the Black Country in general, were geared up for war, turning out munitions, warplanes, guns, and all the paraphernalia of the modern conflict.

Orders were cancelled, though production of, now unwanted items, continued into 1919.

MEMORY LANE

By Alec Brew

Companies had to find new products to turn their skills to. Wolverhampton was well served in the new motorised age with many vehicle manufacturers, who thought they could return to car and motor-bike production and find a ready market with the returning servicemen, many of whom had become well used to motor vehicles during the four years of conflict.

Dominated

Sunbeam returned their car production from Rover in Coventry but still hoped to make a large business in the production of aero-engines, which had dominated the Villiers Street factories during the war.

They were to find that the competition from Rolls-Royce in particular and from cheap war-surplus engines was too much, and they hardly sold an aircraft engine after the war.

Round the corner Star returned to car production, but were never able to sell enough from their confined factories to sustain the business, and firstly their Briton division and then Star itself went to the wall, and Edward Lisle, founder of the company took his life.

Guy returned to making trucks, and became hugely successful.

Other companies were also to find ready markets for their metal-bashing skills, making locks, bicycles, ploughshares, and all the nuts and bolts to put them together.

Elsewhere servicemen returned to quieter lives, opening shops, starting their own businesses, often with the skills they had learned in the Army, and looked forward to re-building their lives.

Tomorrow's Worlds: The Unearthly History of Science Fiction (BBC2, 9.45pm)

In a new four-part series, historian Dominic Sandbrook examines the genre which has dominated the media for decades, after years of being on the fringes of popular culture. And there's no shortage of big names taking part, including Star Trek veterans William Shatner and Nichelle Nichols, Star Wars's feuding duo Anthony Daniels and Kenny Baker, Avatar's Zoe Saldana and one of the genre's most popular authors, Neil Gaiman. In episode one, Dominic examines sci-fi's enduring fascination with outer space, from Jules Verne's groundbreaking 19th-century vision of a voyage to the moon, to that galaxy far, far away in Star Wars.

Michael Palin

Remember Me (BBC1, 9pm)

It's 23 years since Alan Bleasdale's GBH first hit our screens. Incredibly, it marks the last time that Michael Palin took the lead role in a TV drama. But the seasoned traveler and comedian is back in this three-part series as Tom, an eightysomething pensioner living in a small Yorkshire town. He fakes a fall so he can be taken into residential care, but takes with him only an empty suitcase. Once he's settled in, a variety of bizarre events begin, sparked by the freak death of the social worker in charge of his case. Later, Hannah, the care worker Tom has bonded with, discovers sheet music and wax recordings of various versions of Scarborough Fair, but he becomes agitated when she sings it to him.

Harry Brown, Channel 5, 10pm

An elderly retired marine leads a law-abiding existence on a south London estate, until his best friend is murdered by a local gang. Furious at the police's inability to bring the killers to justice, he takes the law into his own hands to get revenge. Crime thriller, starring Michael Caine. (2009)

TUESDAY

The Shooting Party, BBC1, 12.20am

An English aristocrat invites friends to his stately country home for a weekend of pheasant shooting in 1913. The guests enjoy the self-indulgent privileges of the upper classes, heedless of the local rural poor who cater to their every whim – and are blithely unaware that the approaching war will change their sheltered lives for ever. Period drama, based on Isabel Colegate's novel, with Edward Fox and Robert Hardy. (1985)

WEDNESDAY

New Town Killers, BBC1, 11.35pm

A teenager from inner-city Edinburgh agrees to act as prey in a deadly game of cat and mouse played by a wealthy banker and his latest recruit. However, the hunters always seem to be one step ahead and the youngster realises his chances of survival are slim. Thriller, starring Dougray Scott. (2008)

The attack is the work of an infamous terrorist who is unable to feel pain after surviving a gunshot to his head, and who now intends to destroy the world's supply of oil. Spy adventure, starring Pierce Brosnan, Robert Carlyle, Sophie Marceau and Robbie Coltrane. (1999)

Martin digs deep to find us the best deals

Financial journalist Martin Lewis has been frequenting our screens for years now, giving insider tips on how we can further tighten our purse-strings during these hard-up times.

In fact, the money-saving expert is nothing short of a godsend actually, and if anybody knows cash, it's him.

Of course, Mr Lewis' tips have been known to get him into trouble with the big guns of the trading world on the odd occasion, but, from challenging unfair parking tickets to doling out the know-how regarding those television adverts and pestering text messages about mis-sold PPI, his advice has proved priceless (pardon the pun) in the past.

So it's with open arms and loud cheers that we welcome him back to the telly, alongside reporter Saira Khan – and it's come at just the right time, and given the time of the year, there's a noticeable theme to this first episode.

The series kicks off on what's become known as 'Black Friday', the date marking the beginning of the Christmas shopping season. But if you're already fretting because you don't even know where to start when it comes to present-buying this year, Martin will be listing all the essential deals that you expect to find in stores and online.

Meanwhile, Martin and Saira visit a family in Hertfordshire for a personal stock take of all their belongings to help them raise money to pay for Christmas. And soon enough, any regrets they thought they'd have are forgotten, as they sell unused clothes, mobile phones, buggies and toys.

The Christmas Ideal Home Show is also on Martin and Saira's to-do list this week, as they give members of the public handy tips on how to drum up a bit of extra cash for the festive period, while Martin dresses up for pantomime season as Dame Right-I-Am to show us how we can become wise consumers.

But while Martin is keen to impart his expertise, he certainly doesn't want to sound like he's preaching, telling PA that he never intended to make money from doing this: "I don't preach about how to make money. That's not really my thing at all or my passion to be honest.

"I was very lucky is the answer. I set up a website I believed in. It originally had no way of making money. I set up a business. I still don't consider myself to be an entrepreneur. I'm somebody who set up a website and I consider myself to be a journalist and consumer campaigner.

"Because the website got so big I needed a way to fund my servers, so I came up with the most ethical way I could think of to fund the site, and it did a lot better than I thought it would.

"I'm about providing information for consumers and fighting for consumer rights. I'm not about setting businesses up, and I think there are far more qualified people than me to talk about how to do that. I got lucky."

Whichever way you look at it, Martin, we're lucky that you got lucky, as our purses have been a lot heavier since you came along...

MONDAY

Loch Ness Monster: The Missing Evidence Channel 5, 8pm

Tales of a creature haunting Loch Ness go back for nearly 1,500 years, but only in the last century did the legend truly take off. At St Andrews University, statistical ecologist Charles Paxton has compiled a database of every sighting of the monster ever reported and his team hopes detailed analysis of these records will finally uncover the truth behind the myth of the Loch Ness monster. This programme uses modern forensic technology to re-examine well-known photos and footage, looking at how hopes of finding a surviving dinosaur were dashed by a hoax that fooled everyone, while enthusiast Adrian Shine recounts his decades-long search for the elusive beast.

Posh People: Inside Tatler BBC2, 9pm

Forget watching Made in Chelsea – if you really want a glimpse of Britain's most privileged, just flick through the pages of Tatler. The oldest magazine in the world, it's been documenting the lives of Britain's upper-classes for 300 years, and being pictured in its pages is a rite of passage for the country's social elite. Now this new series is going behind the scenes to find out what's involved in documenting the lives of the rich and powerful. It discovers that you don't have to be posh to work at Tatler, but it probably does help – editor Kate Reardon is a self-confessed 'honking great Sloane', and all the features team are expected to be versed in the rules of upper-class life. For the magazine's new recruit, writer Mathew Bell, it's a chance to see how the other half live, as he attempts to go from middle-class outsider to privileged insider, at home in the company of those featured on the magazine, who range from Lord Glasgow to Nigerian millionaire Kola Karim.

TUESDAY

Live UEFA Champions League ITV, 7.30pm

Manchester City v Bayern Munich (Kick-off 7.45pm). Coverage of the matchday five Group E clash from the Etihad Stadium, where the hosts are in desperate need of a positive result. Defeat at home to CSKA Moscow last time out left City bottom of the group and on the brink of elimination, which would be sealed if they fail to beat the German champions and CSKA or AS Roma triumph in the other encounter. The reverse fixture on matchday one saw Bayern win 1-0 courtesy of a late goal from former City defender Jerome Boateng, while the corresponding fixture here in last season's competition also saw the Bundesliga outfit record a victory, as they completely outclassed the Citizens en route to a 3-1 scoreline. Presented by Adrian Chiles.

WEDNESDAY

Waterloo Road BBC1, 8pm

Floyd confronts Tiffany and Justin about their relationship, and after the two boys gets into a fight, Tiffany worries her brother will spill the beans to Vaughan and Allie. The police descend on Waterloo Road when Kevin's computer hacking on a multinational organisation is traced back to the school, sparking a major security risk, and Sonya's short story looks set to jeopardise her friendship with Christine after it turns out she has drawn inspiration from her colleague's alcoholic past.

Live UEFA Champions League, Tuesday, ITV, 7.30pm

Britain's Bloodiest Dynasty Channel 5, 9pm

New series. Powerful storytelling and dramatic reconstruction bring to life one of the most bloody and violent chapters in British history as Dan Jones explores the lives of the Plantagenets, who ruled England and much of France during the Middle Ages. The historian begins with Henry II – the first king of the dynasty – a dashing and energetic warrior who transformed England from a violent and lawless state into the heart of an empire that would become one of the greatest that Europe has ever seen.

FRIDAY

Ben Fogle: New Lives in the Wild Channel 5, 9pm

Ben journeys to the wilderness of Alaska to spend time with Mike and Fran Turner and their children Cathy and Nate, who welcome him into their simple, self-built log cabin. He discovers how the couple have created a self-sufficient lifestyle by working the land and trapping animals, while battling against forest fires in the summer and freezing conditions in the winter. Ben takes every opportunity to get stuck into forest survival, as he battles mosquitoes and adapts to 24-hour daylight.

Jimny gets a freshen up

By Anthony Martyn

Suzuki has given some specification upgrades to its highly popular Jimny compact 4x4 model, aimed at refreshing the appeal of the iconic model in the Suzuki range.

First introduced in 1998, Jimny has built up an established, tough and capable reputation amongst its 22,000 loyal owners in the UK with many currently on their third or even fourth new Jimny.

Steel Silver and Khaki Green have been added to the metallic paint range of five shades available for the higher specification SZ4 model with three metallic and

A new seat fabric has been adopted for the SZ3 and SZ4 features new design 15-inch alloy wheels finished in dark Silver.

In line with EU regulations both SZ3 and SZ4 models now have a new design instrument cluster that includes a Tyre Pressure Monitoring System (TPMS) for added safety as well as a Gear Shift Indicator (GSI) to help the driver keep fuel consumption to a minimum.

The 2015 model is also equipped with ESC (Electronic Stability Control) as standard.

Jimny has a neat and practical look and since sales began in 1998 it has accumulated a loyal following of customers who enjoy a quirky alternative to a supermini or crossover SUV.

‘First introduced in 1998, Jimny has built up an established, tough and capable reputation.’

Jimny exceeds expectations off road whilst still being more than capable in any urban area, ideal for customers who want the best of both worlds.

The all-alloy 16 valve 1.3-litre engine has variable valve timing, ensuring lively performance, and strong fuel economy with the manual transmission model returning an official 39.8mpg in combined cycle driving (38.7mpg for the automatic); respective CO2 outputs are 162 and 167g/km.

All Jimny models are covered by a three-year/60,000-mile new vehicle warranty, one year AA Suzuki Assistance, providing 24-hour UK and European roadside assistance, recovery and associated services; and by a six year perforation warranty.

On the road prices include VAT, delivery to dealer, number plates and First Registration Fee.

CANNOCK • CASTLE DONINGTON • SUTTON IN ASHFIELD

Pitching up an octave

By David Banner

You can trace the Skoda success story of the last couple of decades back to the original launch of one model: this one – the Octavia.

Right from its very first appearance in 1996, this has been a car that's always super-sized its value proposition, offering more space than the class norm. For first and second generation versions, that class saw competition amongst Focus and Astra-class family hatchbacks. This MK3 model though, has taken a step up in the world, virtually big enough to compete with Mondeo and Insignias in the larger medium range segment.

An Octavia then, that's larger than ever before – and cleverer too – as it has to be to distance itself from the simpler, smaller Rapid model that hit the market a few months before this car arrived in the spring of 2013.

The Rapid is the car to choose for Skoda motoring as it used to be, light on frills and cutting-edge technology but solid, reliable, value-laden and built to last. This Octavia, in contrast, is more a signpost to a direction the Czech brand wants to go in the future: one that shares the very latest technology with more luxurious brands in the Volkswagen Group stable.

As with the Volkswagen Golf and the SEAT Leon, the German engineers who created this car took a pragmatic approach to driving dynamics, deciding that drivers opting for lower order engines wouldn't care too much about cutting-edge handling response. So the sophisticated multi-link rear suspension is reserved for the performance-oriented vRS models, the most powerful of which uses the 2.0-litre TSI petrol unit borrowed from the Golf GTI. Here though, we're focusing on the mainstream variants that most Octavia customers will be considering. Most customers will opt for either the 1.2-litre TSI petrol model or the 1.6 TDI diesel we tried, both engines putting out 105PS. There's also a frugal 'Greenline' version of the 1.6 TDI, offering up 110PS.

None of these variants feel very fast but you can perk things up a bit by recourse to the kind of hi-tech intervention you simply wouldn't expect to find on a family-minded Skoda of this sort: 'Driving Mode Selection'.

Simply use the infotainment touchscreen to select between 'normal', 'sport' and 'eco' driving settings, depending upon the kind of progress you want to make.

Mainstream

You'll certainly enjoy all of this more at the wheel of one of the pokier mainstream variants, either the 140PS petrol TSI 1.4 or the 150PS diesel TDI 2.0-litre.

Skoda people will probably quite like the fact that the look and feel of this car is very similar to its predecessor. The similarities persist despite the difference in size: this car is 90mm longer and 45mm wider than its predecessor, making it all the more impressive that it also manages to be up to 102kgs lighter. But it's when you lift the heavy bootlid that you get a feel for what this car is really all about. It's absolutely huge, the 590-litre load area you reach over a notably low lip 28mm longer and 125-litres bigger than before. There's 610-litres if you go for the Octavia estate model.

'This MK3 model though, has taken a step up in the world, virtually big enough to compete with Mondeo and Insignias in the larger medium range segment.'

The two bodystyles – hatch and estate – are mated with 1.2, 1.4 or 2.0-litre petrol power or one of the 1.6 or 2.0-litre diesels and there's the choice of four main trim levels – S, SE, Elegance and vRS.

Whichever one you choose, your car will come with alloy wheels, tinted glass, climate-controlled air conditioning that also cools the glovebox, a height-adjustable driver's seat, a four-spoke leather-covered steering wheel, a trip computer, an eight-speaker stereo with a DAB digital radio and USB and AUX-in sockets and a hill holder clutch that stops you from drifting backwards on uphill junctions.

At the bottom end of the line-up, the alternative, with the same 105PS output, is the 1.2-litre TSI petrol model, a variant that might even work out cheaper over the short term given its lesser asking price and use of cheaper green pump fuel.

That's thanks to a combined cycle return of 57.7mpg and a CO2 reading of 114g/km.

These are figures that fall to 53.3mpg and 121g/km if you opt for the 140PS petrol 1.4. Opt for the pokier 150PS 2.0-litre TDI diesel and you can expect 68.9mpg and 106g/km of CO2.

A Skoda in fact that can do everything you'd expect a comparable Audi to do – at a substantial price saving.

Vauxhall is taking soft option with little ADAM

By David Banner

It's genuinely hard to know where to start with this one, but we really ought to get the name out of the way first. The Vauxhall ADAM Rocks Air must go down as one of the strangest car names since the Japanese discovered Google Translate and stopped sending us Pantry Boy Supremes and Giga Light Dumps. But what is this thing?

If you hadn't noticed, Vauxhall has tried to claim a share of the niche small car market occupied by the likes of the Fiat 500 or the Citroen DS3. The trouble is, the ADAM is somewhat hampered by a badge that smacks of Luton rather than Turin and sales have been slow. The ADAM Rocks Air is a soft-top version styled with offroad-style design cues.

The ADAM Rocks Air is available with a choice of three engines. The 70PS 1.2-litre engine and the 87PS 1.4-litre engine we've seen before and very serviceable units they are. Of more interest is the introduction of a 1.0-litre three-cylinder powerplant, good for 115PS thanks to its turbocharger. It's the first Vauxhall to get this engine, which is the mainstay of the fourth generation Corsa range.

When plumbed into the open-topped ADAM, it's capable of getting to 62mph in under 10 seconds. Unlike most three-cylinder units, it's been designed to offer excellent refinement, with the characteristic warble of a three-pot only really audible when you mash the throttle. With 170Nm available at just 1,800rpm, it's a more relaxing engine than you'd imagine, albeit with a slightly elastic feel to the throttle response.

Retuning

The Rocks Air model adds another 15mm to the stock ADAM's ride height. This isn't going to equip you to tackle the Dakar Rally, as underneath it's still the same front-wheel drive chassis architecture, but Vauxhall has done a thorough job in retuning the springs, shocks and roll bars. Therefore this Rocks Air version still corners well and ride quality isn't bad either.

In fact, you'd be hard pushed to feel much in the way of difference. Ease of use on urban roads is enhanced by a 'city' mode, which increases the electronic power steering system's assistance at lower speeds.

Believe the press bums and you might get excited that Vauxhall has created something genuinely good and original. Read between the lines a little and you might suspect that the parts that are good are not original, and the parts that are original aren't that good. Does the market need a soft-top faux-by-four? Didn't automotive evolution kill this genre off at least ten years ago, with most of us hoping it would never be resurrected?

That said, Mark Adams' team has done a good job in the styling of this car. What sounds utterly ludicrous on paper works surprisingly well in the metal, with strong lines and a lovely chutzpah to its design. The all-road-style wheelarches work well with the 'floating' roof which is visually disconnected from the body.

Button

The electric folding canvas roof is operated via a button located in the front area of the headliner and folds back neatly on to the C-pillars in just seven seconds. The roof can be opened or closed while the car is moving at up to 85mph. The boot keeps the full opening of a hatchback and loading volume remains untouched. The entire roof module is acoustically tuned for noise insulation inside the cabin and the robust, three-layer fabric has a neoprene centre for weatherproofing and durability. The folding canvas roof is available in a choice of two exterior colours – Black or Sweet Coffee.

The ADAM Rocks Air ensures that it's not going to freeze you on cold winter mornings. It's the only vehicle in its class to offer the comfort of a heated steering wheel, driver and front passenger seats. Other interesting items of standard equipment include a hill start assist which maintains the brake function for about two seconds after the driver has taken his/her foot off the brake pedal. This prevents Rocks Air from rolling back when starting on a slope or, when driving off from traffic lights or a parking spot on a hill.

The standard infotainment equipment is a CD 3.0 BT system, with radio and a MP3/WMA compatible CD player featuring Bluetooth and USB connections, as well as a hands-free function.

Go for the 1.2-litre petrol engine and you'll see economy figures of 53.3mpg with emissions of 125g/km. The 1.4-litre powerplant offers up another 17PS with very little efficiency penalty, netting 52.3mpg and 126g/km. The star of the show is the 1.0-litre turbo unit which gets the best economy at 55.4mpg, the lowest emissions at 119g/km and is comfortably the quickest and most refined to boot. A 38-litre fuel tank rather caps the range a little, but the ADAM was never designed to be a GT car.

New Mondeo in the comfort zone

By Matt Joy

Ford has finally released its new Mondeo. Despite the looks, it is all-new. It concentrates on comfort more than before, and it has a range of new engines to cut emissions and improve fuel economy. Prime among these are new 1.0-litre turbo petrol and 1.5-litre turbodiesel motors that bring a new wave of downsizing to the family car class.

There are fewer dash buttons to come to terms with and Ford now fits a large touchscreen to operate many functions. On top of this, Ford's Sync2 voice control system lets the driver change settings with simple commands while keeping both hands on the steering wheel.

At first glance, you could be forgiven for thinking the new fifth generation Ford Mondeo is not much more than a face-lifted version of the previous car. The overall silhouette is much the same, as is much of the rear-end style.

However, the slimmer headlights give a sleeker look that will be key to the Mondeo clawing back sales from the likes of the Audi A4 and BMW 3 Series that have proved so popular with their premium images.

If the Mondeo is not seen as quite as premium as those rivals from Audi and BMW, it easily better them for cabin space and load lugging.

Most UK buyers will opt for the Mondeo hatch or estate, with only the Hybrid version available as a saloon.

Weight

There is masses of room in the rear and there is a wealth of adjustment to fine-tune the driving position which includes electric seat height adjustment. As for the boot, the hatch's is large and the estate's is cavernous.

Ford has made a conscious effort to make the new Mondeo an even more comfortable car than its predecessor. This means the new car's suspension has a little more compliance that translates into a superbly smooth ride over any type of road surface.

Refinement is also top drawer, so the Mondeo is a class leader for hushed long-distance travel. The 2.0-litre turbodiesel can be a touch gruff at low revs, but settles into the background at speed, while the other engines are quiet and pull cleanly.

While more refined, the Mondeo retains its ability to hustle through corners with composed ease, though the new car's steering is not quite as alert as the old model's.

Starting at £20,795 for the hatch and £23,795 for the estate, the Mondeo is not as keenly priced as its arch-rival, the Vauxhall Insignia. However, the Mondeo compensates with a generous level of equipment that includes digital radio, climate control, cruise control, hill start assist, alloy wheels on all models and Ford's 8in Sync2 touchscreen.

Ford may have lost sales ground to its premium rivals, but the bulk of sales for the new Mondeo will still come from company car drivers.

Carbon dioxide emissions that dip below 100g/km and up to 78.5mpg average economy will appeal to business users and private buyers alike.

Alto given a sporty touch

By Anthony Martyn

Suzuki's Alto attempts to woo the growing numbers of buyers in search of a fun, affordable small car.

It's certainly small and with economy now up to around 66mpg, we can tick the affordable box too.

Suzuki has tried to instil some of the sporty flavour that endeared its Swift supermini to buyers, perhaps to compensate for the fact that this car is less polished and charismatic than some of its citycar rivals. It's a lot cheaper than many of them though and ownership now means zero VED payments and zero congestion charge.

Smaller cars address so many of the problems currently faced by motorists and the automotive industry at a stroke. In car terms, smaller usually means lighter which allows the use of smaller engines that use less fuel and cause less pollution.

They also take up less road space, are easier to park and can move through congested streets more effectively. There are drawbacks with regard to how much you can actually fit inside them but, particularly in an urban environment, the benefits seem to outweigh the costs.

Suzuki has a long and successful history manufacturing small cars and its latest improved Alto pools that considerable know-how. The market looks to be moving in Suzuki's direction but will the Alto be able to capitalise?

The Alto's 1.0-litre petrol engine looks ideal for a compact urban vehicle – and it's a bit more sophisticated these days thanks to the addition of Dual VVT variable valve timing. The three-cylinder unit musters 67bhp and 90Nm maximum torque at 4,800rpm. That doesn't sound thrilling but in a car that tips the scales at 855kg, it's enough to cover the 0-60mph sprint in 13.5 seconds. Stick at it and a top speed of 96mph is also attainable. Worth mentioning too that an optional four-speed fully automatic transmission is available, a relatively unusual proposition in this segment.

Impress

Suzuki's Swift supermini never fails to impress with its sharp handling and the Alto aims to replicate that big fun factor within its more compact package. The MacPherson strut front suspension is tuned to give the rigidity and fast response required in a nimble small car and at the rear, Suzuki's clever three-link rigid axle suspension is used.

This set-up doesn't respond well to surface imperfections but for a car of this size, the Alto handles reasonably well without ever feeling sporty.

It was once enough for a citycar to be small and efficient. If it looked like a shrunken Transit van and had a wow-factor equivalent to a bag of potatoes, nobody much cared. Today, as small cars become a more mainstream choice for urban motorists, there's a demand for them to display a lot more individuality and style.

With the Alto, Suzuki has risen to this challenge creating a look it says 'exudes urban energy'. You can be the judge of exactly what it's exuding but with its huge teardrop headlights, oversized grille and sharply rising beltline, the car is definitely distinctive. For the latest model year, there's a palette of smarter colours and upgraded wheeltrims.

We're told that the space for front seat occupants is 'prioritised' in the cabin and so it should be but that doesn't bode well for those in the back.

Suzuki products rarely leave too much to the imagination in terms of equipment and the Alto doesn't break with that tradition. The car, priced from around £7,000, is also well-appointed from a safety perspective.

An aggressive pricing policy should count for something. A target of 60,000 sales annually in Europe has been set for the car built by Suzuki in India in partnership with local manufacturer Maruti Udyog.

The 1.0-litre petrol engine can return an impressive 65.7mpg on the combined cycle along with emissions that now dip under the important 100g/km barrier at 99g/km. If you specify the four-speed automatic gearbox, environmental performance will tail off. The auto model gets 53mpg and 118g/km emissions.

Perfect for city driving

By David Banner

How many visits do new car buyers make to a showroom when they're considering changing the family holdall parked on the drive?

A few years ago the answer was a round half dozen; yes, six trips through the showroom doors as the potential buyer weighed up the merits of the metal temptation sitting under the spotlights.

Now that same shopper visits a showroom ONCE, and then probably with a print out of the best price they've found on the internet. The main question to the sales staff is: "OK, then, can you match this figure?"

Which means first impressions count more than ever, with only a single chance to romance a buyer into signing on the bottom line. Better start with a good looking car, then.

The man who made the new Peugeot 108 look the way it does is a sharp-dressing Dutchman called Ivo Groen, design director for this model, and for the car it replaces, the strong selling 107.

He's honest enough to admit the two cars share rather a lot of the bits you can't see, and they're built in the same factory in the Czech Republic as the new Toyota Aygo and Citroen C1, so making them look different is vitally important.

Are old and new baby Peugeots as different as chalk and cheese? There is honesty again in Ivo's answer: "No, they're like cheese and cheese because they share the same roots. But while the 107 is the kind of cheese you would have with a baguette, the 108 is a cheese you would like to eat with a nice glass of red wine."

What a very French way of thinking, from a Dutchman, no less. But he's right, the 108 does look a more sophisticated take on minimal motoring than the 107.

Crucially, it also looks a lot more separated in style from the other two near identically engineered and priced rivals from the same factory.

And like the Toyota and Citroen, there are any number of ways you can make your own 108 look more different still.

Specification

The new range starts at £8,245 for an Access model with 1.0 litre engine, three doors and a specification that includes electric windows and remote central locking, but won't be bought by many attracted to a new 108. They are much more likely to head for something like an Active grade car (from £9,495) and the goodies it brings, from air conditioning to DAB digital radio and a seven inch touchscreen.

Passing through the Allure we reach the pinnacle of 108 motoring with the Feline grade, from £11,845. That brings a larger, 1.2 litre engine and temptations like alloy wheels, dual zone air conditioning and leather seats. So, a grown up spec in a little car.

Then we get to the bit Peugeot hopes will have you ticking the options' boxes; with the standout extra a folding fabric roof for £850 that lets a lot of light into the car, even though it's rather less the Cabrio that Peugeot calls it than a giant sunroof. You can then go mad with add-on patches of colour inside and out. Perhaps a dashboard striped like a supermarket bar code gone colour crazy, or a two tone finish, perhaps in purple and grey? Fancy a style upgrade after you've bought the car and your dealer will happily change a trim panel or two to suit your fancy.

That won't make the car drive differently, of course, but it's pretty good in standard form anyway. The little engine sounds enthusiastic as it pulls you along at a perfectly reasonable pace, while recording an impressive 57.6mpg on a test run over city, country and motorway tarmac.

There's not much room in the rear (and the boot is small) but this is a car designed for life in the city, where the optional and dearer 1.2 litre engine would prove of little benefit. It pulls better once out of the 30mph limit and still topped 50mpg, but for most people, most of the time, the little engine will do the job just fine.

Pulsar from Nissan could be the ticket for plenty of car buyers

By Ian Donaldson

Nissan is scratching a seven year itch and entering a vital part of the car market where it's been absent since 2007, while it made a mint with a couple of SUVs.

Now that the Qashqai and Juke are pulling in punters like there's no tomorrow, it's high time to put up something against the like of Ford's Focus, helping fill a part of the market that accounts for one in three new cars sold in the UK.

The result of much midnight oil burning is the Pulsar, designed and sold only in Europe – and built in Barcelona.

This five-door hatchback follows the same design path chosen by competitors and majors on space and the chance to add the sort of technology usually associated with dearer cars.

That can include four cameras that give a bird's eye view of what's around the car and automatic emergency braking which can stop the car at low speeds before you hit the vehicle ahead.

Designed

The Pulsar looks smart from the outside and obviously designed with a European twist (not the eastern one you might expect from a Japanese car maker) and is clean and uncluttered inside, if a bit too obviously plastic in some areas.

Nissan has pushed front and rear wheels further apart than in any obvious rival and the resultant space in the back will easily managed a six-footer sitting behind a similarly tall driver.

Only a potential owner will know how useful that feature will prove, with more than half all Pulsar sales destined for the fleet market, where they'll spend a lot of time with only the drive aboard.

The present Pulsar range is simplicity itself with just one petrol engine (1.2 litres) and a single diesel (1.5 diesel) on offer, although a sportier petrol version looks a certainty before too long.

Prices range from £15,995 and top out at £21,945, which includes the £1,600 premium asked for diesel models. About half of all Pulsar buyers are expected to take the petrol route, with the Acenta (£17,645) likely to be the highest selling trim line.

That model comes with the automatic safety brakes already mentioned, along with automatic lights and wipers. Every Pulsar has air conditioning and Bluetooth phone connection, while the N-TEC model tested here adds 17 inch alloy wheels, satellite navigation, DAB radio and cruise control.

Economy

In a car world where diesel is king on the economy front it's too easy to forget the charms of petrol power; displayed here by an engine that stays hushed even from a cold start and pulls smoothly from such low engine speeds you'll stay in higher gears longer, to the benefit of fuel economy.

Given a firm request for maximum urge, the Pulsar proved a surprisingly engaging car on some familiar back roads, all the time staying comfortable on surfaces I know (from bitter experience) can unsettle a lot of other machines.

After an hour's spirited motoring the trip computer (part of a nicely legible dash readout) showed 38mpg.

That's about what I expected and was easily bettered by slowing down and changing up when the dash arrow prompt told me to.

That resulted in an impressive 52mpg, showing once again that you can have fun or frugality, but not both together.

The diesel would undoubtedly top that figure without trying hard, but remember the £1,600 extra it will cost.

So for lots of drivers the new Pulsar is going to be just fine in a model that costs less than might.

Can't argue with that.

NOTICE TO READERS

Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with it's Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any
KC documentation, if pedigree.
Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

CANNOCK CHASE DISTRICT COUNCIL

Cannock Chase Local Plan (Part 1) was adopted on 11th June 2014 providing a Core Strategy for Cannock Chase District and an Area Action Plan for Rugeley Town Centre.

Part 2 of the Local Plan will identify site specific allocations and will help address Birmingham's housing needs, should this be necessary, and safeguard sites for potential development beyond the plan period to 2028 to help meet future District needs. Part 2 will be informed by an independent Review of the Green Belt within the District undertaken by Land Use Consultants Ltd, in consultation with stakeholders.

This notice provides an opportunity to make comments on the proposed Methodology for the Review and the Land Parcels to be assessed. Comments received will be used where appropriate to refine both the Methodology and the Land Parcels. The Review itself will then be undertaken by Land Use Consultants Ltd in early 2015.

The documents can be viewed at www.cannockchasedc.gov.uk/planningpolicy and paper copies will be available for inspection at the Council Offices in Cannock and Rugeley and the public libraries in Cannock, Rugeley, Hednesford, Norton Canes, Brereton and Heath Hayes. Responses should be submitted by email to planningpolicy@cannockchasedc.gov.uk or in writing to Planning Policy, Cannock Chase Council, Civic Centre, PO Box 28, Beecroft Road, Cannock WS11 1BG by 19th December 2014.

HIGHWAYS AGENCY

THE A5 TRUNK ROAD (CHURCHBRIDGE TO BROWNHILLS) (24 HOURS CLEARWAY) ORDER 20XX

THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR TRANSPORT hereby gives notice that he intends to make an Order under sections 1(1), 2(1) and (2) and 4(1) of, and paragraph 27(1) of schedule 9 to, the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 on the A5 Trunk Road in the County of Staffordshire and in the Metropolitan Borough of Walsall.

The effect of the Order would be to prohibit, with exemptions, any vehicle from waiting at any time (other than in a layby) on the length of the A5 from a point 143 metres east of the centrepont of its junction with Leacroft Lane, Bridgton town, and including, its roundabout junction with the A452 and Wilkin Road, Brownhills.

A COPY of the draft Order, plans illustrating the proposals, a copy of the Order to be varied and a statement explaining why the Secretary of State proposes to make the Order may be inspected during office hours at Cannock Chase Council, PO Box 28, Beecroft Road, Cannock, Staffordshire, WS11 9RF; Norton Canes Library, Burntwood Road, Norton Canes, Staffordshire, WS11 9RF; or may be seen at, or obtained by application to, the Highways Agency, The Cube, 199 Wharfside Street, Birmingham, B1 1RN.

Any person wishing to object to the proposed Order should send a written statement of their objection and the grounds thereof to Karen Eustace at the Highways Agency at the address given above. The objection must be received no later than 11 December 2014.

When submitting an objection it should be borne in mind that the substance of any objection may be communicated to other people who may be affected by it.

For further information contact Karen Eustace on 0121 678 8420.

CANNOCK CHASE COUNCIL PUBLIC INFORMATION NOTICE

Community Infrastructure Levy

Draft Charging Schedule Examination

The Community Infrastructure Levy (CIL) was introduced by Government in 2010 as a means for Local Planning Authorities (LPAs) to fund infrastructure required to support development proposed in a Local Plan. Levy charges are required to set out in a charging schedule which must undergo public examination.

On 31 October 2014 Cannock Chase Council submitted a Community Infrastructure Levy Draft Charging Schedule for public examination under Section 212 of the Planning Act 2008. This followed a 6 weeks consultation period held between 8th August 2014 and 19th September 2014.

Copies of all documents submitted for the examination can be viewed at: www.cannockchasedc.gov.uk/planningpolicy and paper copies of the documents are available for inspection at the Council Offices in Cannock and Rugeley and the public libraries in Cannock, Rugeley, Hednesford, Norton Canes, Brereton and Heath Hayes.

02 No wins without Tom on the pitch

Walsall 0
Peterborough 0
FOR all Walsall's progress one big, unwanted statistic remains – they still haven't won a league game without Tom Bradshaw.

Saturday's draw with Peterborough means they have now taken just two points from a possible 18 from games in which their top scorer has missed.

And with the 22-year-old's ongoing hamstring problems showing no signs of leaving for good, it's a real cause for concern. Manager Dean Smith felt Bradshaw may not have made much of a difference against the Posh.

We'll never know. But it is reasonable to surmise he would have done, in a match where the Saddlers had everything but the finish.

Unbeaten
And while it might seem a little unfair to focus on their record without Bradshaw, when they are five games unbeaten and getting so much else right at the moment, it is unavoidable.

The statistics speak for themselves.

The Saddlers have scored just 14 goals in 17 league games, with Bradshaw having contributed almost half.

Calling for Pitmen to keep form

HEDNESFORD Town assistant manager Larry Chambers has insisted it is now time for the Keys Park side's encouraging form to be maintained.

The Pitmen earned a creditable point against Conference North table-toppers Barrow and now sit in seventh on the back of enjoying of a five-game unbeaten run.

"We were very happy, I thought we played very well and that over the 90 minutes a draw was probably a fair result," said Chambers.

"We saw how we can compete against one of the strongest teams with all of our lads out there, now it's about consistency and maintaining those standards," said Chambers.

Bar Sports delivers knock out for Crystal

Cannock Chase Football League
Brereton Town Cup Round Two
BAR Sports reinstated into this competition, knocked out Crystal Fountain 5-2 to progress to the quarter finals. Two goals by Jordan Harvey and a goal each for Neil Hudson, Liam Thomas and Hughie Lewis with Karl Smith MoM.

Cannock Chase Cup Round Two
Dean Watkiss and an own goal helped Premier League Rugeley Utd to knock out third division White Lion 2-1.

Wheatshaf won their local derby against Cheslyn Hay knocking them out 4-2 after trailing 1-0. Ryan Coney kept yet another match ball with a hat-trick and brother Lee scoring.

Winding Wheel knocked out Glassworks 6-3 with five of the goals from Nick Hodg-kiss and one from Mark Neece.

Premier League
Brereton Lion go second after beating CK77 7-0 with six of the goals in the second half. Gary Dunn and Beckham Foulton both scored two with further goals from Matt Hanger, Ash Andrews and MoM Ross

Perry. Harrisons came away from Brereton Town with all three points after a 3-0 win. Jon Letford, Craig Hyden and MoM, Phil Wilkes scored.

Ridware Oak's game against Belt Road was abandoned with just 12 minutes to go with the score at 4-0 to Ridware Oak. James Russell scored two and one each for Stu Tapper and Chris Deakin.

Division one
Chase Spartans go top after beating Talbot 5-2. Jack Langston and MoM Alex Daley both scored two goals with 18 year old Dan Hater scoring on his debut. Oakwood beat Wyrley Juniors 4-3.

Division Two
AFC Social climb to eighth after beating Trafalger 1-0 with a last minute 50 yard goal from Nathan 'Zlaten' Matthews. Mitch Talbot was MoM.

Hen House beat Jubilee 5-1 with goals from Olly Wharton, Simon Traat, Liam Martin and a double from Jack Connolly who now go third.

Division Three
Second place Greenheath thrashed Cannock Social 14-1. Soldiers had a 2-1 victory over Bridge Inn.

Cannock Rangers made it six for six by beating the romping Cat 2-1.

Decision goes in Roberts favour

GREAT Wyrley Boxer Mitchell Roberts became the new Midlands Light Welterweight Champion in Bloxwich at the weekend with an exciting split decision over Walsall Wood's Kashif Khan.

In a real David and Goliath affair the 6ft 2ins Khan towered over the 5ft 4ins Roberts and he looked to utilise that advantage by flicking out long left hands.

Robert's patience was the key in the bout and he was picking his moments to attack. In the second round Roberts started to take over landing jabs and hard hooks to the body as Khan tired rather quickly.

It was all Roberts in the last as he punched the fleeing Khan round the ring, landing one hard right hook in particular that splayed the long legs of Khan.

Coach Pete Hickenbottom said: "We'd seen Khan fight before and we devised a plan to take his jab away from him.

"We used tall sparring partners and Mitchell practised out jabbing them. Once he'd done that everything else flowed and we knew the belt was ours.

"It's no more than he deserves for all the hard work he puts in. He works 11 hours a day."

Etheridge is to fight a decider

WALSALL'S Liam Etheridge has granted Mat Windle a rematch for the UniBox Central England flyweight title to take place on home turf next month, writes Craig Birch.

Etheridge avenged his defeat to Windle in the England Elite national competition earlier this year when he snatched the belt nine days ago.

But the 20-year-old, who represents Pleck Boxing Club, feels they need to go at it again to truly decide who is the better fighter at 52kg.

They are set for battle at the Banks's Stadium on Thursday December 11 with Etheridge hoping to defend his crown twice. He said: "It's 1-1 between me and Mat now."

Cannock Ladies 1sts 2 Whitley Bay Ladies 1sts 5
CANNOCK found themselves three down after 20 minutes at Whitley Bay.

The hosts took full advantage of Cannock's slow start and the score remained 3-0 at half time. The irony of the second half was that Cannock competed on equal footing and matched the hosts further goals with two strikes from Ruth Graham.

However they could not overcome the deficit and returned home empty-handed. With results elsewhere not favouring them, a home victory against fellow strugglers Kendal on Saturday at 2pm is very much required.

Cannock Ladies 2nds 1 Kettering Ladies 1sts 0
Cannock Seconds looked to get back to winning ways following two close games. They started strong and had much of the possession with penalty corners coming close and two being saved off the line by the opposition.

The home side continued to press during the second half and it wasn't until the final two minutes when forward Sophie Tibbetts found the back board.

This week the Seconds face top of the league Northampton Saints at home.

Cannock Ladies 3rds 7 Utttoxeter Ladies 2nds 2
Cannock had big expectations aiming to remain top of the league and score some goals.

Two goals each for Holly Dean and Bev Cartledge, as well as single strikes for Emma Smith, Loz Bullock and Leah Smith saw Cannock run out 7-2 winners.

Hitman Hearn's can still draw a crowd

Thomas 'The Hitman' Hearn and Richie Woodhall square up at Bar Sport in Cannock

CANNOCK had already been visited by two of boxing's 'Four Kings' and they got a third – six-times world champion Thomas 'The Hitman' Hearn.

Together with Roberto Duran, Marvin Hagler and Sugar Ray Leonard, the Hitman was one of the giants who dominated the sport in the 1980s.

By the time of his final professional fight in 2006, Hearn had racked up world titles across five divisions. He became, during the course of a career spanning four decades, regarded as one of the sport's hardest-ever hitters and his series of fights with Duran, Hagler and Leonard are still regarded among the greatest ever.

Last night he appeared in front of a packed crowd at the Bar Sports Premier Suites in the town centre, following in the footsteps of Duran and Leonard who both appeared at the same venue in the past 12 months, in the latest boxing night organised by owner Scott Murray.

Hearn admitted to being taken aback by the number of people there. "You never know how many fans you have in city or in a country 'til you arrive," he said.

"This feels bigger than it did at home. I was lucky to be around in a great era of boxing when the sport was huge."

Penalty denies Hayes a share

Heath Hayes 2

HEATH Hayes made the long trip to Hereford for their game against third in the table Westfields and can count themselves very unfortunate to come away with nothing after turning around 2-0 down at half time to a respectable 2-2 with a minute left when the referee gave a penalty to Westfields which amazed even the home supporters

Hayes went a goal down after 20mins when Morgan was put through by Cuss who beat Martyn Cotterell with ease

With the game going into 1st half injury time Westfields increased their lead when Joel Edwards was allowed to head home Cuss's corner

Second half saw Hayes come more into the game putting Westfield defence on the back foot for long periods. The pressure paid off when Kieran Northwood headed home Sean Eatlys cross Hayes levelled when Joe McNulty put away a penalty for hand ball

It looked like Hayes would come away with a hard earned point until a penalty went again. Cotterell made a good save from Lewars only for Cuss to follow up to bury the rebound.

Club gets honour of World Cup

CANNOCK RUFC will be visited by the Women's World Cup on November 25.

The club is one of only two Staffordshire teams to be given the honour.

The cup will be displayed at the Morgan Ground from 9am to 3.30pm.

All local schools have been invited and local women and girls are encouraged to come up and see if they are the next Margaret Alphonsi or Emily Scarrett in a variety of non-contact/tag exercises that are being held throughout the day.

Or if you don't feel energetic you can just watch the variety of training sessions that are being provided for the Staffordshire women's squad and local schools to get involved with.

Burntwood can't get over the line

Edwardians 15 Burntwood 6

ON a day when the top half of the table racked up some big scores against the bottom half, Burntwood were involved in the closest fixture but they went without scoring a try for the first time this season to slip into the lower half of the standings.

The first 10 minutes set the tone for the day as the hosts camped in the visitors' 22 but were met with solid defence by Ben Holt's side.

However, the pressure eventually told in the 18th minute when Edwardians went over from a catch and drive at a line out.

Rugby

The successful conversion made it 7-0. Burntwood's first venture into opposition territory came four minutes later. Luke Rookyard's burst through centre field earned a penalty which Aza Dunet, in the absence of Will Peach, converted from 30 metres.

Edwardians' domination of the set scrums proved to be a crucial factor in the game as the wet conditions provided plenty of opportunities for their pack to dictate play. Burntwood survived two close range scrums near to half time but only at the expense of conceding a penalty which was goalied to take the hosts up to 10-3 at the break.

The second period followed the same pattern with Edwardians collecting the kick off, winning a penalty and kicking into the visitors' 22. The Burntwood defence was put under intense pressure but they tackled and covered manfully.

It was not until the 65th minute that Edwardians scored again. The forwards paved the way before two slick passes down the short side led to an unconverted try.

With 10 minutes left Burntwood produced their best attacking spell of the game. Forwards and backs combined to take play up to the home five metre line. The ball was cleared but back they came via Rookyard's pass to Holt on halfway.

The skipper backed his pace which has carried him to the try line regularly this season but even he was denied by a great last ditch tackle five metres out.

Dunet kicked a penalty on 77 minutes. Burntwood welcome Handsworth on Saturday.

Bloxwich Men's 1st XI 1
Oswestry Hockey Club 1

THE match was a very tight contest that was tied to end and a great contest for any spectators to come and watch.

In the first half, both teams played some excellent hockey and created many chances.

Incredible saves from both the Oswestry keeper and Bloxwich keeper, Mark Brooks, kept the scoreline 0-0 at half time.

The end to end nature of the game continued in the second half and it was Bloxwich who broke the deadlock first with a well worked Eddie Marrocco short corner being deflected into the Oswestry goal.

Not long after, Oswestry won a short corner and blasted it into the Bloxwich goal to bring the game level.

Adam Baldwin of Bloxwich was denied a goal by the umpires for the ball not leaving the D on a short corner.

Bloxwich felt hard done to towards the end of the game but with fine saves from both keepers being highlights of the game, a draw seemed a fair reflection on what was a pulsating game for all involved.

Bloxwich look forward to their trip to Whitechurch this week.

Scholars prove to be a four-cc to reckon with

Chasetown 4 Loughborough Dynamos 1

CHASETOWN cruised into the FA Trophy draw and could have had doubled their final goal tally.

They dominated the second qualifying round tie. The home side did survive an early scare though as Daryll Thomas gave Dynamo a ninth-minute lead with Chasetown's defence at sixes and sevens.

It took the Scholars just four minutes to equalise against their Evo-Stik First Division South rivals, when Todd Evans and Simon Brown combined down the inside right channel and Brown's cross into the box was steered home by Richard Davies - scoring in all three of Chasetown's Trophy games this season so far.

A partially cleared corner fell to the feet of Lee Parsons who drilled a low shot beyond an unsighted Damien Clark to give the home side the lead just after the half-hour mark.

Clark made a stunning fingertip save over the bar from Davies but it wasn't long before the Dynamo keeper was beaten again to take the Scholars further into the lead.

Brown and Evans were also involved in Chasetown's third. Evans elected to go short rather than long with the throw-in and Brown return pass saw Evans curl in a first-time cross and Danny Edwards leapt well to head the Scholars 3-1 clear eight minutes before half-time.

With one game in the local area abandoned due to fog, there was one eye on the weather as mist descended at the start of the second half, but a drizzly start to the second 45 minutes saw the visibility improve until the dying two or three minutes.

Chasetown could easily have added further goals at the start of the second half. Nathan Waite got into a good position down by the bye-line and chipped up the ball for Edwards whose header goalwards was hooked off the line by Joe Pheasant.

Then, Waite saw an effort pushed onto the base of the post with Clark getting the slightest touch with his fingertips to prevent Chasetown's leading scorer from notching a goal.

Loughborough defended spiritedly to keep the scoreline down but in stoppage time substitute Danny Griffiths marked his return to Chasetown poking the ball beyond Clark to complete the scoring. Griffiths, who marked his Chasetown debut last season with a goal after a minute of his introduction, became only the second player in 25 years to score on his club debut and his first game back after re-joining the club.

Chasetown's Richard Davies wheels away after levelling the scores against Loughborough Dynamos

Darlaston's seven hits top spot

Red Star Alma 0
Darlaston Town 7

DARLASTON Town went top of West Midlands Division Two with a magnificent 7-0 win against landlords Red Star Alma.

John Reeves grabbed a hat-trick and a strike by Ashley Walker gave Darlo a 4-0 half-time lead.

Skipper Ryan McAllister, top scorer Mark Swann and Sam Melia, with his first goal for the club, completed the rout in the second half, with Alma's Michael Peach sent off.

A superb four man passing move saw Lucas Hough set up McAllister to volley home a vicious 25 yard shot.

Pics put Scholars out with penalties

Rushall Olympic 3 Chasetown 2 (aet)

RUSHALL Olympic, who saw off local rivals Chasetown thanks to a 3-2 penalty shoot-out win.

The game finished 0-0 after 90 minutes despite the home side having numerous chances to seal the win in normal time.

Cameron Belford was the hero as he saved three out of five penalties for the Pics. Rushall dominated the first half and Luke Barlone sent the first effort of the game over the bar.

Pics should have taken the lead as Ramone Stephens teed up Carl Palmer who could only shoot wide. Stephens then had a chance to open the scoring himself, but also failed to test Curtis Pond in Chasetown's goal.

Luke Barlone and Jacob Craner sent shots wide as Stan Mugisha came the closest in stoppage time – firing just past the far post with Pond at full stretch. Chasetown's only effort on target came from Jonathan Haynes.

In the shoot-out, Belford saved the Scholars' first two from Danny Edwards and Danny Griffiths as Aaron Williams and Barlone scored for Pics. Jermaine Johnson and Asa Charlton beat Belford but Jack Lees' miss allowed Mitchell Tolley to send the Pics through.

Sporting Khalsa 4 W-ton SC 0

KHALSA stretched their lead at the top of the West Midlands Regional League with a comprehensive win.

Khalsa dominated throughout and but for some wayward finishing and an inspired performance by visiting goalkeeper Sam Benton, the scoreline would have looked even more one-sided.

The deadlock was broken on 33 minutes when Mike Perks rocketed home a 25 yard drive.

The stubborn resistance of the visitors finally crumbled on 73 minutes when Craig Bannister was felled in the penalty area and up stepped Tim Jackson to lash home the spot kick.

Wolves blow as Dicko doubtful for Forest

NOUHA DICKO dealt Wolves a fresh injury blow as he faces missing the Nottingham Forest game on Saturday.

The four-goal striker missed Mali's 2-0 defeat against Malawi last weekend after suffering tight hamstrings again in training when he was passed fit by Wolves before he travelled to join up with the squad a week ago.

Dicko faced a 10-hour flight from Namibia before returning home yesterday to be assessed by Wolves.

Team-mate Bakary Sako, who played in the Malawi game, is still with the squad preparing for tomorrow's final African Nations Cup qualifier against group winners Algeria which Mali need to win to be sure of making the finals in Equatorial Guinean.

"Dicko felt his hamstring in training and has come back, so we shall see," said head coach Kenny Jackett.

"As for this Saturday, I think he's extremely doubtful.

"He flew back into the country yesterday and he's doubtful for Saturday, but you never know." Dicko missed the three games before the international break with the same problem and Jackett admits the problem has resurfaced.

"We'll see – the good thing is there's no damage but it's recurring so it does seem as if there's an underlying problem," he said. "And it would be a risk. Hopefully we don't need him (on Saturday)."

"He was sensible enough to not involve himself on Saturday and get a flight back.

"It doesn't seem to be too bad. It's only some tightness but it shows how close it was last week and how unpredictable hamstring injuries can be. Hopefully we can get to the bottom of it and make sure he has no more problems. He's picked this up after being approved by ourselves and myself to go (with Mali).

"Maybe he had that in his mind, but as of last Friday and Saturday he was fine. He missed the last series of internationals with a heel problem, probably during that two-week period that cleared up and he trained and it was OK."

Meanwhile Forgotten Wolves winger Razak Boukari is finally set to return to full training in two weeks.

COUNTY EXPLOIT DEFENSIVE HOLES

Stockport County 3 Hednesford Town 0
HEDNESFORD Town fell to their fourth away defeat of the season to Stockport County.

County made the most of the opportunities given to them by a generous Pitmen defence which contrived to undo a very positive start by the away team.

Stockport had lost just one game at home all season, having won six in succession, but it was Hednesford who started by far the better side.

Surprise

Unfortunately The Pitmen did everything but score in that opening quarter.

The home side took a surprise lead against the run of play when another Hednesford attack broke down and County were able to waltz through a largely non-existent midfield before

Despite finding themselves a goal down, Hednesford continued to attack.

The away side had another great opportunity to equalise after the half time break when Walker's left footed volley was saved by Ian Ormson before a Jamey Osborne free kick was headed too high by Diggin.

Football

However, with 16 minutes remaining and with The Pitmen still very much in the game, Stockport were presented with another opportunity to settle the match.

First Francis horribly skewed a clearance and when the loose ball was headed onto Lee Stevenson down the left wing, Francis looked to out-muscle the Stockport player only to lose his footing and present Ritchie Baker with an easy chance from 12 yards which he duly swept past the exposed Crane.

With Hednesford now needing to really chase the game, Stockport were always going to threaten on the counter attack and, despite Ormson making a superb save from a rasping left-footed Hurst drive, the third goal came when a long ball by the goalkeeper found Hurst struggling with Spencer and once the defender leaned into the back of the striker the referee was only ever going to give one decision.

Jamie Milligan despatched the resulting spot kick to put a rather unfair gloss on a victory.
